Outstanding Young Farmer named

C. L. "Goob" Martin, Jr., right, of Kewanee was named Jaycee Outstanding Young Farmer for 1974-75 Thursday night at the Farmers Recognition banquet at the Ramada Inn. Presenting the award was Steve Sikes, left, president of the Jaycees. Tony Heckemeyer, foreground, was master of ceremonies. Martin farms 1,600 acres near Kewanee where he grows cotton, corn, soybeans, milo, and wheat. He is a member of the New Madrid Masonic Lodge, Kewanee Methodist Church, vice president of the New Madrid County Young Democrats, National Farmers Organization young farmer chairman, Farm Bureau director, and committeeman for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Sixteen other area farm families were honored at the banquet. K. M. Streeter of Painton received the Agri-Business Award.

Rockefeller given okay by committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rules Committee voted unanimously today to recommend the approval of Nelson A. Rockefeller to be vice president.

The 9 to 0 vote sends the nomination to the Senate floor. The full senate is expected to vote after Congress returns from its brief Thanksgiving recess.

The Rules Committee decision came after eight weeks of investigation and hearings into the finances and public and private record of the former New York governor.

The decision became unanimous when Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., joined the majority to vote for Rockefeller.

Allen had said earlier he had not made up his mind how he would vote because he disapproved of Rockefeller's "big government, tax and spend philosophy."

Allen said that from Rockefeller's responses at the hearings he believes Rockefeller has moved philosophically toward the right in recent years.

"While I disagree with much of Gov. Rockefeller's philosophy, I realize that it would be impractical for me to expect a nominee with whose views I wholly agree," Allen said. "Therefore, acting in what I consider to be the national interest, I have voted for Gov. Rockefeller's confirmation as vice president."

Rockefeller's nomination also appears certain to win a solid recommendation from the House Judiciary Committee, despite some concern about his vast wealth.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., said at House Judiciary Committee hearings Thursday he sees a pattern in Rockefeller's loans, gifts and political and charitable contributions to use money to "enhance your political power."

Waldie sparked the only show of anger from Rockefeller when he suggested the committee investigate whether Chase Manhattan Bank, headed by Nelson's brother, David Rockefeller, made loans to New York assemblymen when Nelson was governor.

"I resent that question," Rockefeller said. "We don't operate that way. The bank is not used on a political basis."

Waldie, joined by several other members, said the Rockefeller family's wealth and $20 million in political campaign contributions required the committee to investigate the entire family's holdings and not only Nelson's.

Other members said they were concerned whether it would be possible to avoid conflicts of interest by wedding Rockefeller's immense wealth with his power if he became president.

Rockefeller told the panel he would treat as blind trusts those trusts with assets of some $131 million if he is confirmed. Rockefeller and members of his family are beneficiaries of those trusts. The trustees under a blind trust act without telling the trust beneficiary what they're doing.

"These steps should avoid any possibility of a conflict of interest on my part — or the appearance thereof," Rockefeller said.

Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., suggested Rockefeller go even further and put his wife's separate wealth in a blind trust.

Rockefeller promised to talk to her about it. He later reported back to the committee that she did not seem to like the idea, although he indicated that no final decision had been made.

Although the questioning was sometimes tough, little of it was hostile. It appeared at the end of the session that possibly only half a dozen of the 38 committee members might vote against Rockefeller's nomination.

Ford aide to meet with South Korean dissidents

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Ford saw the biggest crowds of his life today and, pressed by critics at home, agreed to have an aide meet spokesmen for dissident factions who oppose the repressive rule of South Korea's President Chung Hee Park.

Press secretary Ron Nessen appeared in the hotel press center shortly before midnight to say that five clergymen representing Protestant and Roman Catholic groups would meet with Richard Smyser, whom he described as a senior member of the National Security Council staff, to hear the clerics' complaints.

Nessen said Smyser would stay over in Korea after Ford's departure to meet with the churchmen. The press secretary promised that whatever the clergymen told Smyser would be passed on to Ford.

The U.S. chief executive flew into Seoul this morning to an elaborate welcoming ceremony and a huge crowd lining the 10-mile motorcade route into the downtown section of the capital.

National police estimated about two million flag-waving, confetti-throwing Koreans lined the way to see the U.S. President. American reporters judged the crowd at a million or more, roughly equivalent to the turnout for the late President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1960.

Cancer interest jumps among Scott Countians

Concern about cancer has been heightened in Scott County, especially among local women, because of the recent mastectomy operations on Mrs. Betty Ford and Mrs. Happy Rockefeller.

People are asking what progress is being made toward controlling the disease. They are interested in the mortality rate locally as compared with that in other areas.

Questions like these are being raised in every part of the country. Nationally, a seemingly contradictory situation is revealed in government reports. On the one hand they show that doctors are curing a larger proportion of cancer patients than ever before.

On the other hand, more people are contracting the disease and the number of deaths is increasing.

The answer is to be found elsewhere, points out the American Cancer Society. It is due to the fact that fewer people are being struck down by the infectious diseases, which were once the big killers, with the result that more of them are living to an advanced age, where they are more susceptible to cancer.

The degree of cancer mortality in Scott County is indicated in the annual reports of the U.S. Public Health Service.

Its last three annuals show an average of 52 cancer deaths per year in the local area. Not included are those involving non-residents.

This amounts to a rate of 158 deaths per 100,000 populatrion. It compares with 160 per 100,000 in the United States andwith 180 in the State of Missouri.

14-year-old girl held in hit and run

EAST PRAIRIE — A 14-year-old juvenile girl from East Prairie is being held in protective custody by order of the juvenile court after she was picked up Thursday night in Charleston in a stolen car which was involved in a hit and run accident.

The 1974 model car, owned by W. C. Bryant of East Prairie, was stolen sometime between 1:15 and 2:30 p.m. Thursday while it was parked near Winchester Chevrolet Co. in East Prairie.

About 8 p.m. Charleston police were notified of a hit and run accident which had occurred on Center Street and a search began for a white automobile damaged on the right side. A 1971 pick-up truck owned by C. D. Masonry Inc. and a 1972 automobile belonging to William H. Thompson were damaged in the accident.

A short time later the car was located at the Mississippi County Bowling Lane on Highway 105 by police officer Willis Cox. The girl was taken into custody when she came out of the building and got into the car.

It has not been determined if the girl was the only person involved in the series of incidents.

Hall home destroyed

EAST PRAIRIE — The frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Hall, 407 Wilbur St., was gutted by fire about 7:45 a.m. Thursday.

Fire Chief Frank King said the fire of unknown origin began in the kitchen and quickly spread throughout the home destroying all of the family's belongings.

Senate smashes vetoes on aid, secrets bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Overturning President Ford's vetoes, Congress has continued aid to the handicapped and curbed the government's power to keep secrets.

The Senate overrode the two vetoes Thursday, voting 65-27 to reject Ford's objections to the Freedom of Information Act amendments and 90-1 on the vocational rehabilitation measure.

The House overrode the same two vetoes Wednesday by votes of 371-31 and 398-7, respectively. A two-thirds vote is required in each chamber.

Ford now has been overridden on three of his 13 vetoes since he became President Aug. 9. The other was on a railroad retirement bill.

The Senate vote on the information bill enacted it into law.

Ford had his strongest support in the Senate on this one because of objections to the measure from defense, intelligence and law enforcement agencies.

However, Senate sponsors insisted there was an overriding need to end government secrecy which they said had contributed to Watergate and the war in Vietnam.

The legislation would authorize federal judges upon request to examine documents to decide whether they should be made public and fix a 10-day limit for agency decisions on whether to supply information.

The bill also would set a 30-day limit for the government to reply to freedom of information lawsuits; narrow the power of agencies to withhold law enforcement investigatory files, and require the keeping of an index of documents available to the public.

The vocational rehabilitation bill bill would change the way the Department of Health, Education and Welfare administers the 54-year-old program of job training for handicapped persons.

The measure would put the program in a new separate office directly under the HEW secretary, and Ford had objected to this as creating "new, unnecessary bureaucracies."

Outreach program to offer mental health services here

Elizabeth Ferrell, 612 Carroll Ave., has been named the Outreach worker for Scott County as part of the new Community Mental Health Project.

The Outreach program offers counseling and mental health services to the general public and is expected to begin in the next two weeks. Mrs. Ferrell said she is still looking for an office.

The program is free to residents of Scott County and was begun under a $300,000 federal hospital grant to Farmington State Hospital, Mrs. Ferrell said. The hospital decided to improve its services by beginning the Outreach program, she added.

Elizabeth Ferrell

The Outreach program is being operated for the first time in Missouri in the six-county area of Scott, Cape Girardeau, Butler, Wayne, Dent and Howell.

The counties were chosen because they are in large trade areas and have larger communities with a number of health care agencies and a high utilization rate of the hospital.

Never before has the government taken someone who lived in the county, trained them, and then sent back to the county, she said. This makes the program unique in the country, she said.

Mrs. Ferrell said that by returning to her home county, the worker is already familiar with the people she is working with, the needs of the area and the people who can help her.

The program includes marriage counseling, child testing, outpatient work for Farmington, and working with people locally so they will not have to go to Farmington.

The program's goals include providing mental health services to area residents, providing a more consistent approach of the followup and after care and providing communities and agencies with a regional

4 Scott County men named commissioners

BENTON — Four Scott County men were appointed Thursday by the County Court to serve as commissioners on the nine-member Southeast Missouri Regional Port Authority Board, which will be responsible for establishing a port on the Mississippi River to serve Cape Girardeau and Scott counties.

The four men named were Raymond Roth of Illmo, appointed to a one-year term; Mike Pfefferkorn of Chaffee, for a two-yar term; Jackson Hunter of rural Sikeston, appointed to a three-year term; and C. B. Taylor of Morley, for a four-year term.

The Cape Girardeau County Court Monday appointed four Cape Girardeau men ot serve on the port authority board.

Named to the board from Cape Girardeau County were C. W. Rushing, Maurice T. Dunklin, Robert J. Earley and A. J. Wier, county prosecuting attorney of Cape Girardeau. All had served on the Cape Girardeau County Port Authority.

At the board's first meeting, the eight members will select a chairman from its members. This will require the appointment off another member to serve the term of the member elect3d chairman.

Formation of the board was made possible when the Missouri Department of Transportation agreed on Nov. 12 to grant a port to Southeast Missouri. Both Cape Girardeau and Scott counties had been working for approval of a Southeast Missouri Regional Port Authority since mid-summer.

One of the first duties of the board will be to authorize feasibility studies on a port location in one of the two counties. The county courts of both counties have tentatively agreed to appropriate equal amounts of funds for the initial planning of the port.

The Scott County Court Thursday also recommended that Sikeston Mayor Frank Ferrell be made a non-voting member on the Port authority board, but such a decision would have to be made by the entire board, Presiding Judge Les Lankford said.

County Clerk Bob Kielhofner reported to the court at its Thursday session that while the county had enough money to meet its obligations, money had been misappropriated and the 1974 budget would have to be revised.

From figures supplied to the court, Kielhofner pointed out that in two of the three budgeted funds the county was in good shape. Budgeted in the general fund category was $590,363.51 for the year, but the county had spent only $481,992.34, leaving over a $100,000 for thelast two months of the year. Over $203,000 had been budgeted for Federal Revenue sharing funds, and only $130,155 has been spent.

The problem centers on the road and bridge funds, and specifically in the road materials category. Inflation is the central problem, Kielhofner said.

When the present budget was being planned in 1973, the price of oil used in laying asphalt roads was 13 cents per gallon, Kielhofner reported. Last summer when the county was repaving several roads, the price had jumped to 30 cents per gallon, he added.

Another example he used was bridge timbers. In the summer when bridges in the county were being repaired, the cost was much higher than when the budget was being planned, Kielhofner said, although the price has dropped some now, "you have to get the materials when you need them," he pointed out.

Kielhofner and the county court were quick to explain, however, that although the county had already spent twice as much in the road materials category as had been planned, the county has enough money. The difficulty is that it is illegal to switch money from one fund to another without state approval.

Kielhofner and the court have already applied to state Auditor John Ashcroft for approval to shift the funds, and they foresee no difficulties.

"I don't think they'll say a word against us," Associate Judge Eldon Ziegnehorn of Sikeston said in discussion of the problem.

Teacher draws 5 years probation on rape charges

CHARLESTON — Michael Williams, a former junior high school teacher in Charleston, received a suspended five-year prison sentence and was placed on five years of probation following his appearance before Circuit Judge Marshall Craig on two counts of statutory rape.

The charges against Williams involved a Charleston girl, under the age of 16, formerly a student of Williams. The alleged rapes occurred on Feb. 14 and March 6. Conditions of Williams' probation included revocation of his Missouri teacher's license, obeying the law, paying court costs and remaining under the supervision of his probation officer.

In a jury trial Wednesday, Jackie Thompson of East Prairie was awarded $3,000 in his suit against the Missuri Property Insurance Placement facility. The suit was filed by Thompson, who was seeking a settlement from the company after his home at 304 West Virginia St. in East Prairie burned on May 7, 1973.

Larry McCutchen and Robert Keith Norman of East Prairie were each given suspended three-year sentences and placed on three-year probation on armed robbery charges. The charges against the two youths were in connection with the Aug. 26 robbery at Brown Smith's Feed Store near East Prairie.

Frankie Tatum of Anniston entered a plea of guilty to a charge of shooting into a dwelling. Punishment was taken under advisement and a request for a pre-sentencing investigation by a probation officer was granted.

Larry Clark of Charleston pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing over $55 and trial was set for Feb. 5. Clark, who is accused of stealing a rifle belonging to James Belk, was released so that he could attend school.

A degree of dissolution of marriage was granted Cletus D. Noggle and Lois H. Noggle.

MORE SAFETY NEEDED WITH TANK CARS

In the last two years, three disastrous explosions of railroad tank cars have occurred, with large loss of life and untold thousands of dollars of damage to the areas far beyond the boundaries of railroad property. In each case, the tank cars were carrying compressed flammable gases. And also, in each case, the accidents involved "humping," or free-rolling tank cars in switching operations.

"Humping" is the practice of having the locomotive push a long line of freigh cars up a "hump," or rise in the railroad bed. At the top of the "hump," the lead car rolls free down a slope and is then switched to desired locations in the railroad yard, there to be coupled with other freight cars heading for the same destination. The savings in freight costs, of course, is considerable, since the locomotive is not required to push each car to the desired spot.

However, in view of these recent accidents, the National Transportation Safety Board has recommended that the Federal Railroad Administration establish a requirement that all freight cars carrying compressed flammable gases be placarded "dangerous," and that the switching operations be handled in the same manner as for those cars carrying high explosives. This would prohibit switching of such freight cars without a locomotive attached.

Clearly, such restrictions will involve more time and trouble in the handling of the cars. But, such restrictions seem wise, since it is clear that the safety of free-rolling cars with compressed gases cannot be guaranteed. In the three accidents, the gases were not the same. Propylene exploded in East St. Louis; isobutane at Decatur, Illinois; and butadiene at Houston, Texas. Hopefully, the Federal Railroad Administration will take quick action, before more lives are lost.

THE POLITICS OF LITTER

What good are anti-littering signs if most people don't think they apply to them? Or ugly looking litter barrels which may, in themselves, be an eyesore? Or $100 fines for littering if they are seldom enforced?

Not very much says University of Wisconsin sociologist Thomas Heberlein who has found that many people simply don't seem to regard their littering acts as littering.

More specific signs, such as "Paper is litter, don't throw paper out of your car," is one of his suggestions for attacking the highway litter problem.

Another is brighter, more attractive, "FUN TO USE" cans that encourage the litterer to re-use them.

As for those stiff fines, they make an officer want pretty definite proof before he arrests someone. But not only is littering not an obvious act, like running a red light, it is not as dangerous to other motorists. Thus litterers rank far down on the policeman's priority list of offenders.

Lower, more realistic fines might increase the likelihood of more arrests and hence better enforcement of the anti-litter laws, thinks Heberlein.

We think he thinks smart.

"Recent history has proven," comments a publication of the Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company, "that regulatory control is frequently in basic conflict with the principles of the competitive business system. One typical example is a proposal to require 'Line of Business' reports for the Federal Trade Commission, detailing sales, costs and profits. The FTC alleges that buyers could use the data to judge the fairness of price-cost margins and profit rates. The question is, who is to determine whether sales promotion expenditures are too high and in relation to what? As one critic put it, 'This proposal is totally at odds with the concept of the American free enterprise system.'"

IS ARMAGEDDON DETERRENT ENOUGH?

Not love of peace but fear of war — nuclear war — has maintained East and West in uneasy coexistence since 1945.

Not the North Atlantic Treaty Organization nor the presence of American troops in Europe but the sure knowledge that any war that began conventionally would end in a mutually destructive nuclear exchange has kept the Soviet Union within the borders it advanced to at the end of World War II.

Yet we talk as if Hiroshima and Nagasaki had never happened, as if there were not hundreds of nuclear-armed intercontinental missiles on both sides, implanted in underground silos or carried on submarines roving the seas, perpetually targeted on the major cities of both sides.

We talk as if the Third World War, should it happen, would be a repetition of the Second — fought with infinitely more sophisticated weapons to be sure, but essentially a war of army against army, of tank advances along invasion routes, of struggles to win supremacy in the air, of mobilization and deployment and logistics and lines of supply.

A staff paper recently published by the Brookings Institution warns that the Soviet Union is geared for a "high- velocity offensive.. aimed at overrunning Western Europe before the West can be mobilized.

We are told that the Cyprus crisis has placed the status of American bases in Greece in jeopardy and that the loss of these bases would create a dangerous weak spot in the southern flank of the defensive ring holding back the Soviets.

Strategists alert us to the peril posed by Russian's burgeoning navy and her development of new fighter aircraft. America's security, and hence that of the Free World, we are told, depends upon maintaining a military establishment second to none, both our own and that of our allies, even those that are dictatorships.

The Brookings Institution paper charges that our forces in Europe are set up for a long war against the Soviet Union, which is only a little more difficult to credit than the paper's own argument that any war would be a lightning, but altogether conventional, affair.

It is logical to assume, of course, that should the Soviet Union be so foolish as to launch a non-nuclear invasion of Western Europe or a thrust through a weakened Mediterranean flank, the West would initially attempt to meet it with a non-nuclear reply.

But is it conceivable that the West would accept defeat in conventional war — would allow victorious Soviet armies to march into Bonn or Paris or Athens, to sink America's Mediterranean fleet, to sieze the oil fields of the Mideast — and still withold nuclear retaliation?

Or, conversely, is it conceivable that the Soviet Union would permit its armies to be thrown back and see those of the West invade Eastern Europe and not bring it awesome nuclear arsenal into use?

Granted that a totally disarmed West, the lack of even token opposing military forces facing the Communist East around the European and Asia perimeters, might tempt Kremlin warhawks to try a military adventure here or there, ala Hitler, in the belief that such a peace-loving opponent could be pushed pretty far far before he reached the extremity of resorting to nuclear war.

A credible Western defense, serving as a "trip wire" for a nuclear Red Alert but strong enough to make any conventional invasion costly and doubtful and with enough reserve power to contain a conventional war until men came to their sanity, thus makes sense as far as it goes.

But the only real guarantee of peace in the world — peace meaning the absence of a shooting war between the United States and the U. S.S.R. — is, as it has been for nearly three decades, the certain knowledge in Moscow and Washington that any war between them would be nuclear.

ZPG COULD DRY UP SOCIAL SECURITY WELL

Today, for each p erson drawing Social Security benefits there are 3.2 contributing workers. In a generation, because of slowing population growth, there will be only 2.2 workers for every beneficiary.

Beginning next year, automatic increases in benefits will be determined by quarterly changes in the Consumer Price Index in an attempt to make Social Security inflation -proof. This will place even greater burdens on the system.

It is becoming increasingly clear that unless basic changes are made in the Social Security system, in coming years a proportionately smaller work force will be called upon to finance greater and greater benefits for more and more retirees.

For this reason, the Advisory Council on Social Security, appointed last April, has launched a major study of the future financial requirements of the system. It is expected to make recommendations to Congress before the end of the year.

One alternative to higher and higher payroll taxes that is gaining support from legislative leaders is the use of general federal revenues for specific purposes, such as cost-of-living increases. The idea is also championed by the nation's chief spokesman for senior citizens, the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP).

In a recent editorial in its news bulletin, the AARP points out that for years, the American public has been led to believe that Social Security is a fiscally sound "contributory" system of "Insurance" for old age and has not subjected the program to the thorough examination it deserves. In order to avoid bankruptcy, says AARP, the time has come for serious reappraisal and corrective action. It is also "high time that a number of myths about Social Security are put to rest once and for all.

— Social Security is NOT an annuity program. Retirement benefits are not necessarily related to contributions made. For example, a family in which both the husband and wife worked and paid Social Security taxes usually receives the same benefits as a family in which the wife did not work.

— Social Security taxes are NOT paid into a trust fund earmarked for an individual's future retirement benefits. Today's Social Security taxes are used to p rovide benefits for today's retirees. The Social Security "trust fund" now contains approximately $68 billion, while the actual benefits owed participants is valued at more than $500 billion.

— Social Security payments are NOT "contributions." They are compulsory taxes.

— Employers do NOT share the burden of Social Security taxes equally with employees. Their share is treated like any other business cost. It can be passed on to the consumer in the form of higher prices or to the worker as a long-range reduction in his potential salary. It is also deductible for income tax purposes as a business expense.

Although Social Security is based upon a moral commitment between generations, there is no legal guarantee that benefits will be paid to future generations, particularly if the "trust fund" does not remain solvent.

"No pious platitudes about the system's 'fiscal integrity' or sermons about how well it has worked in the past (and it has worked well for many years) can change the fact that the demands on the system in 1975, 1985, 1995 and beyond are going to be far greater and far different than they were when Social Security began nearly 40 years ago," says the editorial.

Today's working Americans provide for the nation's present retirees through their Social Security taxes. Older Americans, AARP believes, have an equal obligation to insure that today's workers find some measure of security in their later years.

Nothing lost? The Commission on the Review of the National Policy Toward Gambling got under way last year with $250,000 from Congress. It assembled an 11-member staff and authorized several research contracts.

This year the Commission asked for nine more staffers and a budget of nearly $1.3 million. A Congressional committee pared the request to an even $1 million.

The request was cut back to $250,000 after floor debate in the House revealed some examples of research authorized to date.

One contract included a study of the history, mythology and astrology of gambling. One proposal called for a writer at $100 a day and a researcher at $50 a day, plus "overhead" of $63,000,to study gambling in Las Vegas.

"Not much," replied the other. "But yours seems a decent sort of girl. What's wrong with her?"

"Oh, nothing much," said the first, "but between the smog and the grog and the fog, I seem to have picked up an aunt of mine."

A Bad Voting Record

The American people went to the polls in the November general election, but the turnout was nothing to be proud of and it is obvious that we must do better the next time. The number of votes cast was the lowest since 1946, the first post-war year.

President Gerald Ford has campaigned hard for Republicans in the weeks preceding the election but he put on the hat of the President at the end and urged the people to go the polls, regardless of party affiliation or political inclination. His posture in both efforts was correct. The test of our system of government was in the voting booth. The low turn-out of voters gave the system a black eye, but hopefully not a knockout punch.

Those who did exercise their great right of the ballot made decisions. Many new faces will show in the Congress, the governor's mansions and in state and county offices in January. The voices of the American people who voted will be heard through those elected, and the voter has no grounds for complaining of the officeholder's actions. All, however, can contact officialdom and express approval or disapproval on legislative and administrative decisions. This we must do for surely great issues are before us, expecially on the economic front. An apathetic electorate can still figure in the decision process, but by default is far inferior to active participation. HLH

Where's Detente?
Soviets Heavily Beefing Up
Espionage Across the U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.--With a professionally innocent and pious mien which by comparison would make Michelangelo's cherubs look like Harlem dope pushers, Soviet delegates here have charged "Multinational" corporations with "subversive political intervention" in many nations.

It's all in a huge report released by the lavish-living Kurt Waldheim, UN Secretary General, the other day. The Russians and their bloc, in fact, now clamor for "exposing transnational corporations engaging in subversive activities."

If these UN halls weren't so grim these days, this "multinational" report would be the first comic relief since the UN show was put on the road in San Francisco back in 1945.

No less a documented authority than FBI Director Clarence Kelley has reported that the entire Soviet Communist bloc is heavily loaded with identified intelligence agents. No doubt some of these KGB spies participated in the "multinational corporation" study. And wrote a good deal of it.

Furthermore, there now are more than 3,000 industrial, commercial and cultural Soviet visitors in the U.S. ranging all the way from Red generals to machine tool specialists. They are members of missions overburdened with Moscow's intelligence specialists operating from this glass tower to the massive plants of Seattle's Boeing corporation--the kind they denounce in this report.

Kelley, in the past few months, has told it like it is--detente or no detente.

"The Soviet Union continues an intensive scientific, political, military and economic intelligence-gathering effort in the United States," Kelley testified not too long ago.

"Intelligence officers operate under diplomatic cover from Soviet bases in Washington, San Francisco and New York. Intelligence assignments are also carried out by Soviet nationals assigned to the United States as newsmen, participants in exchange programs, commercial representatives, employees of the United Nations and others."

Further, Kelley has revealed, "We have identified a substantial proportion of the 943 (Soviet-bloc official personnel in the U.S. now actually totaling 956--VR) as being intelligence operatives."

The FBI's internal security dossiers on Soviet espionage are jammed with cases, many actually electronically discovered, of interference in our political, military and industrial lives. Neither detente nor President Ford's trip to the hidden city of Vladivostok, have deterred the KGB from espionage, bribery, subversion and even sabotage inside America.

There is the case of the 50-year-old Soviet trading outfit, Amtorg, which has been partially a Soviet cover since 1924. It now is an honored tenant of the World Trade Center here in N.Y.

There is still another significant affair. Little more than a year ago the Soviet Embassy's First Secretary A. Chernyshev was asked to leave Washington. He was persona non grata because he was caught subverting, according to the FBI , James David Wood, a special agent in the U.S. Air Force Office of Special Investigations. When caught he had special classified documents for delivery to Chernyshev. Wood pleaded guilty.

And there is a Soviet general wandering around the U.S. looking at some of our best aircraft designs. There are hundreds of such instances. So much so that Director Kelley has indicated he truly needs scores of additional agents for counterintelligence work because of the heavy increase in Soviet espionage action in the U.S. He believes that there will be more Communist spies should Congress grant Russia the most-favored-nation tariff status.

"There are a tremendous number of visitors," Kelley observed recently, "any one of them could be (a spy) and I feel many are."

There is no limit to their interference in American cultural and commercial life life. Two weeks ago, one high Communist "newsman" here attempted to bully some television people who had not been kind (but certainly not abusive) to a Communist head of state.

Further, Soviet agents have set up liaison with some left-wing labor leaders, some of whom are "sleepers," that is, they rarely surface until it's necessary to defend the Soviet bloc on some key sensitive international issue.

To the insider, this isn't unusual. Just look at what occurred in Germany the other day. The Soviets were exposed when the German Federal Republic arrested a high German Federation of Labor (DGB) official in Bonn and charged him with spying. Not so ong ago Britain and Belgium expelled 150 Soviet espionage agents in one year. There, too, they were disguised as commercial and cultural officials.

Perhaps President Ford could take a minute during his hours with U.S.S.R. party chief Brezhnev and urge him to knock it off.

Further, if the Russians are as sensitive about our multinational corporations as the newest heavy tome discloses, why do they beseech them for technological aid and managerial expertise? And why do they want so much of our capitalist credit?

Or is the multinational report intended for anti-American propaganda to sabotage us abroad?

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

How to Create An Oil 'Shortage

WASHINGTON --In defiance of Congress and without a whimper, the Administration has quietly given the oil industry the means of creating a costly natural gas and oil "shortage" in the next few months.

The "shortage" last winter was used by Big Oils as an excuse to keep motorists in gas lines, homeowners shivering, prices up 50 per cent or more and oil profits even higher.

To prevent a recurrence, Congress passed a law requiring the Federal Energy Administration to conduct a "complete and independeant analysis of actual (domestic) oil and gas reserves..."

But the FEA survey, which is supposed to give a true picture of whether there is a "shortage" has instead been run for the benefit of the oil men, not for the benefit of the public.

Last August, the survey forms were sent out to the oil industry for suggestions, but the views of consumer advocates were not solicited. As a result, the oil companies were successful in modifying the forms pretty much to their whim.

Indeed, the FEA quietly issued a "Justification Statement," admitting that the original reporting forms had been "modified to incorporate virtually all the suggestions" from the industry.

One industry suggestion adopted by the FEA has now made the survey virtually meaningless. It would allow the oil companies to report only oil that is easy to pump out, and to ignore oil that is harder to recover.

Thus, if a well produces 500 barrels that could be recovered at $5 a barrel, but contains another 200 barrels that would be difficult to recover, the oil company need only report the first 500.

What this means to the unwitting consumer, of course, is that the 200 can be withheld from the market while Bil Oil cries "Shortage!" again, the 200 can be drawn from the ground and sold at the new higher prices. The same principle applies for natural gas, which is primarily controlled by the oil industry.

In addition, the big oil companies send in their survey forms to the American Petroleum Institute, the industry's powerful Washington lobby. There, they can be checked before the FEA is allowed to see them.

The FEA's survey director , Dr. Daniel Rathbun, pooh-poohs the suggestion that routing the forms through the petroleum lobby is a slap in the public's face. At first, he also insisted that reporting is impossible to avoid.

But under questioning by my associate Jack Cloherty, Rathbun admitted that the major oil companies had data and could report how much oil remained in the ground if ordered to do so. It was only small companies that would have trouble, he conceded.

Despite the gigantic loophole in his survey, Rathbun insisted the FEA was working on other means to find out how much oil is really in America. DENT' DILEMMA: Plain-spoken Harry Dent, the general counsel of the Republican National Committee, has been given the bitter choice of pleading guilty to a minor charge or of facing a felony indictment and a costly, painful trial.

Dent, architect of President's Nixon's successful "Southern Strategy," was given the ultimatum a few days ago by Special Prosecutor Charles Ruff during secret talks in Washington. According to friends, Dent is now gloomily mulling over the "offer" in his native South Carolina.

Under Ruff's proposal, Dent would plead guilty to the misdeameanor of "aiding and abetting" the illegal "Operation Townhouse" which raised $3 million for Republican candidates in 1970.

Although lodged in the basement of a private townhouse, the funding operation was set up by White House aide H.R. Haldeman and contributions were personally earmarked for candidates by ex-President Nixon. Nixon, of course, has been pardoned. But his former lawyer, Herb Kalmbach, is serving a 6-to-18 months sentence growing out of the "Townhouse." A second ex-Nixon aide, Jack Gleason, has pleaded guilty to running "Operation" and faces a possible year in jail.

Dent's involvement is the most ironic of all. He learned South" politics at the knee of his old boss, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. But Dent, like his mentor, is personally regarded as honest. even by his enemies.

His candor led him privately to denounce the White House "dirty tricks" operators and to quit the Nixon team in favor of his current job. Prosecutors concede his role at the "Townhouse" was minimal.

Footnote: "Operation Townhouse" was illegal because it was not registered as a political committee. Oddly, the senators and representatives who got money from the "Townhouse" and its Democratic counterparts have all been spared prosecution.

Youths bound over for marijuana possession

CHARLESTON--- Three Charleston youths, Charles D. Morgan, Sammy D. Morgan and Richard E. Pickett, were bound over to Circuit Court following a preliminary hearing Thursday before Magistrate Judge T.J. Brown Jr. on an amended charge of possession of capsules containing barbituates. The original charge was possession of a controlled substance.

Testifying for the state during the hearing were Charleston police officers Mike Baughman and Walter Westerhold. Mrs. Fracnis Thurmond was called as a defense witness.

The three were arrested by Baughman and Westerhold on Oct. 26 in Charleston after their car was stopped for having defective equipment. According to the officers, the youths were nervous and acting suspiciously which prompted officers to ask for permission to search the car. Marijuana cigarettes, half- smoked, were found in a rear ashtray and in an ashtray placed under the front seat.

A further search of the car after it was taken to the police station turned up a bottle containing 17 blue pills and two white capsules. The charges against the three are in connection with the white capsules only.

Mrs. Thurmond, grandmother of Pickett, testified that the blue pills were a prescription drug for her and that the white capsules had been given to her by her daughter. She further testified that she had lost the medicine, possibly in the car since she had ridden in the automobile.

The youths, who are free on $500 bond each, are scheduled to appear Dec. 10 in Circuit Court.

Roger Cain of Charleston was also bound over to Circuit Court for a Dec. 10 appearance following his preliminary hearing on a felony charge of stealing. He is accused of stealing a .16 gauge shotgun belonging to Larry Harland of Charleston on or about Oct. 1. Cain is free on $1,000 bond.

Benny Corbitt Jr. of Charleston waived a preliminary hearing on a felony charge of issuing a fraudulent check and was bound over to Circuit Court. He is in custody in lieu of bond.

A preliminary hearing for Gary Dale Dowdy of East Prairie, charged with a felony of molesting a minor with immoral intent, was set for Dec. 12 and bond was set at $1,000.

A charge of contributing to the deliquency of a minor brought a $50 fine, plus costs, and a ten- day jail sentence to Jimmie Darrell Hicks. The jail sentence will be suspended upon payment of the fine and costs and Hicks was given to Nov. 27 to pay the charges. Daniel P. Wren was sentenced to ten days in the county jail on the same charge.

An attorney was appointed to represent Hattie Lee Garrison of rural East Prairie on a charge of exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon. She remains in custody under $1,000 bond. She is accused of exhibiting a .22 caliber rifle in the presence of Peggy Brown on Nov. 16.

Charges of striking police officers in performance of their duties against Chester Edward Gary, Eddie Lee Butler and Walter Burnett of Charleston were continued to Nov. 27 to allow them time to employ attorneys. Bond was set at $2,500 each.

Judge Brown overruled a motion to suppress evidence entered by the attorney for Dan Michael Baumann and Steven Michael Janke, who face charges of possession and being under the control of marijuana. The charge was then continued to Dec. 5.

Trial for Roger Cain, David Morgan and Dennis Morgan, charged with disturbing the peace, was taken off Thursday's docket and reset for Jan. 23, 1975. The three remain free on $500 bonds each.

Attorneys were appointed to represent Ray Presson Woods, David Wayne Hannah and Jerry David Grimes, who are each charged with a felony of stealing. Bonds were set at $1,000 each. They are accused of stealing a three- wheel bicycle on Nov. 16 belonging to Bill Byrum.

Preliminary hearing for Harold Oliver Johnson of Charleston, charged with felonious assault with a knife on Luceoin T. Menzies, was set for Jan. 16. Johnson is free on $1,500 bond.

A driving while intoxicated charge against Ray P. Woods of Anniston brought a $150 fine, plus costs, and a 30- day jail sentence, which will be suspended upon payment of fine. Robert King of Charleston, charged with driving while intoxicated, was fined $170 and given a 30- day jail sentence, which will be suspended upon payment of fine. King was given until Dec. 5 to pay. The same charge brought a $174.50 fine to Tommy Ray Bewley of East Prairie.

A warrant was issued for C.W. Mixon of Charleston after he failed to appear on charges of driving while intoxicated and having no operator's license.

Appearing on traffic violations were: Robert Glenn Tyree of Wyatt, no operator's license, $26; Hassie Belle Sweet of Bertrand, speeding, $27; and Michael Herbert Presson of Charleston, failure to signal while turning and out of state operator's license while. a Missouri resident, $41.

Speeding charges continued to Nov. 27 included: Carol Ann Masson of St. Louis, Billy Joe Wilkerson of Bertrand, Jo Ann Dismuke of Bertrand, John Billy Angel of Cape Girardeau, Warren Leroy Galemore of East Prairie, James Carol Hall of New Madrid, Stanford Nevels of Wyatt, James David Peters of Bertrand, Arbery Lee Angew of East Prairie; and David Eugene Hurley of Bertrand.

Other cases continued to Nov. 27 included: Jimmy Quinn of Charleston, operating a motor vehicle without an operator's license; Barton Woodrow Tinnon of East Prairie, driving while operator's license is revoked; Rebecca McRill Parr of Reno, Nev., improper exhaust; and Bran Leroy Buttry of Charleston, underage possession of liquor.

Fines levied earlier this week in Magistrate Court were: Kenneth Lee Whitehead, speeding, $29; Steven Odean Woodard, no operator's license, $31; Gary Clark, speeding, $28; Larry Lee Smith, speeding, $28; Bobby Dale Tatum, driving while intoxicated, $173.50; Connie David Keene, speeding, $43; Carolyn Louise Hayden, speeding, $28; Victor Leslie Bagwell, improper registration, $41; Thomas Hall Pate, speeding and illegal use of dealer license plates, $31; and Robert F. Doctor warns of small children allowed to play in street

Dear Ann Landers: After a long, hard day at the hospital (I am chief of surgery), I picked up the paper and turned to your column. I read the letter from the woman whose brother committed suicide after he had run over a child who playing in the street.

This morning I had to tell a mother that her beautiful, blue-eyed old son died on the table. He, too, was riding a tricycle in the street. His little body was so entangled in the trike that the boy and the trike were laid together on the stretcher.

I can't count the times I've been called to the emergency room to face sobbing whose child was playing in the street. May I pose a question to every parent who is reading this letter: "Do you want your child to live to adulthood?" Not one will say, "No." But I warn you, the next time you allow your child to play in the street or take his trike out to ride it wherever he pleases, it might be the last time you will see him alive. Sign me--Tired M.D.

Dear M.D.: Neither of us will ever know how many little lives you saved today. I hope it will help to make up for the ones you've lost on the table.

Dear Ann Landers: You have always taken the position that a young woman need not give her fiance "the names and numbers of all the players." Your advice is, "Keep your mouth shut about past indiscretions. It's nobody's business."

Does this go for an out-of-wedlock child? When I was 15 I had a son and put him up for adoption. I want to do what's right. Please advise me.--Settling Down

Dear S.D.: A live child can hardly be considered an "Indiscretion." Your fiance should be told--and the sooner the better.

Dear Ann Landers: Today a young girl telephoned and said she wanted to meet my husband and that he had refused to see her. She is his out-of-wedlock daughter. I learned about this girl a few years ago but not from my husband. The child's mother came to see me. My husband is aware of that little visit because I told him at the time.

Now he is terribly upset that the girl would have the nerve to telephone me and try to inflict herself on our family. I need your counsel on how to deal with the problem.

Should I tell our children? They are 12, 14, 16 and 18. I'm afraid if I don't tell them they will hear it from someone else. All this happened 21 years ago, before I even knew my husband.

The girl left me her phone number but he refused to take it. He is a truck driver and frequently passes through the town where this girl and her mother live. He has never called them so I figure he really has no interest.

My husband is a great guy and I love him dearly. What should be done?--Concerned

Dear C: Your children should be told about their half-sister, but this is your husband's responsibility, not yours. I hope he will accept it like a man.

Since he has made it clear that he wants nothing to do with the girl, don't pressure him to see her. And don't invite her over to meet your children, or you'll have real trouble. It is apparent that your husband wants to forget this part of his past and you should respect his wishes. (P.S. I get the impression that he had never given the girl's mother any financial help and this is wrong, unless, of course, she turned it down.)

Going to a wedding? Giving one? Or standing up in one? Even if you're already married Ann Lander's completely new "The Bride's Guide" will answer questions about today's weddings. For a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long' self-addressed, stamped envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Costumery can stir interest in sewing

By JACKIE SCHOENEMAN

Welcome to the wonderful craft of crepe paper costumery. It is for mothers, teachers and group leaders who want to take the time to teach children to dress up a dull day.

"Costumes from Crepe Paper," (Little Craft Book Series, Sterling) by Marie-Blanche Pointillart gives clear instructions and diagrams on how to glue together 10 children's costumes such as a clown, a Russian girl, a Middle Ages princess, a Bolivian girl and a buttercup for true flower children.

Authoress Pointillart points out that crepe paper is an ideal material with which to work because it comes in a myriad of colors, is inexpensive, stretchable, has body and does not ravel. The paper also is easy to replace or patch if it receives wear and tear and is safe if you buy a brand that is flameproof.

Interestingly enough, crepe paper also has a grain which runs in the same direction as the ridges of the paper. Although most of the "seams" are glued together, some are sewn with coarse knitting yarn or lightweight string in long stitches. With these few explanatory notes, and not even a "good luck," you are off.

If you have never sewn before, the instructions may be difficult to follow. They read (and the diagrams look) like those from a regular fabric pattern. In fact, the authoress admits the craft is one of dressmaking and uses customary sewing terms like sepals, raffia-colored paper and X-acto knife that a beginning seamstress may never have heard of.

Because the book is geared for those with sewing experience, Ms. Pointillart does not mention how to make alterations, of if crepe paper should be treated differently than fabric when sewn. Also bothersome is having to flip to the middle of the book to refer to the color photograph of the costume you are making. The costume photo placed directly with its instructions would, at the very least, be an incentive to complete the finished product.

In addition, she concludes the costumes are easy enough for children to make without assistance -- this is questionable. It would be safe to say, however, that making these crepe paper costumes with your child is a great way to stir his or her interest in sewing. This may be the book's greatest benefit.

At Wits End

By Erma Bombeck

The mail reveals that there many women on the domestic scene who would like to write a humor column. The foremost problem confronting most of them is they have not laughed in ten years.

If there is one key word to writing humor, it is perspective. Something may not seem funny at the time it happens. However, given a few years it takes on a whole new dimension.

One of the foremost examples that comes to my mind is my son's bedroom. Who would have thought this could be a topic for humor?

When I visited his room in 1969, my son was six years old. I looked at the troll doll with the blind cord looped around its neck, tripped over a cereal bowl half-filled with leather pudding, rousted the dog who was sleeping under a dish towel out of the top bunk, and went into shock when I discovered a coonskin hat made out of the tails on the only furpiece I was to ever own.

I didn't laugh that year. In fact, when my husband found me I was in a fetal position in the linen closet rocking gently back and forth singing Faith of Our Fathers to a coonskin hat.

In 1972, I again returned to his room as there were complaints from the family that the room smelled like a tire factory.

Things had changed. The room had deteriorated to the point where I couldn't tell where the clutter left off and the decomposition began. One thing was certain. There was nothing in that room that would ever face extinction. Never before nor since have I seen living organisms being produced at such an astronomical rate. Bacteria was multiplying and dividing before my eyes. The goldfish were at Population 2000, the gerbils were living in Orgyville under the bed, and two tennis shoes were reproducing in the corner.

I tried smiling, but I wasn't ready to laugh yet, especially when a mechanical monster chased me all over the room and held me at bay until his batteries burnt out.

I almost laughed in 1973, the year the underwear which was draped over the desk lamp caught fire, (but luckily there was a bucket of old hub caps from the dump that were soaking by the bed and the fire was extinguished.) but my husband slapped me across the face, postponing my hysteria.

Just to show you how time has a way of putting things in perspective, I went into his room yesterday. The stereo made my eyes lock, there were two years of TV Guides under his pillow, the only thing on a hanger was a canteen, his water bed smelled like a condemned gym and thanks to his open windows, we have been air- conditioning the state in the summer and heating it in the winter.

I laughed...all the way to my encounter group.

Flaherty Collection Sparkles

CHEZ JOEY. By Joe Flaherty. Coward, McCann & Geoghegan. 229 Pages. $7.95.

Many of the pieces that make up this sparkling collection first appeared in "The Village Voice," so it follows that much of what Joe Flaherty has to say in them celebrates New York City — even when he is knocking it.

Which is not to say that only New Yorkers will find Flaherty's writing of interest. Far from it. For while his scenes of action may be set in Greenwich Village, the Bronx or an outlying race track, the things Flaherty has to say about what is going on apply equally well to similar places in other parts of the country.

In one piece, for example, Flaherty starts out with the return of the horses to New York's tracks, but it is not long before he is discussing the various forms of gambling, noting that "poker playing is a lot of beery camaraderie" and dice playing is "for dolts." Or, while specifically describing the action at a professional wrestling match, he easily moves on to the thought that "the knock against wrestling is that no one really gets hurt.

School district upgrades special education program

NEW MADRID — Ray Melton, superintendent of schools in the New Madrid County R-1 Enlarged School District, discussed the district operations Monday night at the Business and Professional Women's Club meeting.

The 150-square mile district was created in 1968 with the merger of the Portageville, Parma, New Madrid, Lilbourn, Matthews and Higgerson districts, Melton said. He also reported the following facts.

Assessed valuation of the district for tax purposes is $42 million and the 1974-75 budget is $6.3 million.

Thirty-eight per cent of the district's total funds comes from local and county taxes, 43 per cent from state funds, and 19 per cent, or approximately one-fifth of the funds is provided by federal grants.

The district receives one-half million dollars in federal funds, the third largest allocation in the state, for Title I programs. This includes $200,000 for the Follow Through Program in the Portageville unit and $300,000 for the school lunch program.

There are 580 persons employed by the district that accounts for annual payroll of $350,000.

Student enrollment is nearly 5,000 with an average cost per pupil of $1,013.

Hopefully, Melton said, the district will receive AA classification this year by the State Department of Education and will then continue to move in the direction of reaching AAA standards.

Some of the areas that require upgrading to meet AAA classification, Melton noted, adding that they were reachable, include foreign languages, vocational instruction at junior high level, 25 per cent of the faculty, exclusive of administrative personnel, must have a master's degree, and expansion of the elementary phyusical education program and additional counselors.

The district's special education program has been broadened considerably, Melton said. There are 34 teachers and 34 teacher aides employed in the special education field covering learning disabilities, speech correction and partially sighted students.

In a business session conducted by President Jeannette Haubold, members voted to sponsor a Girl Scout Cadette troop, approved membership for Ellen McCann, and agreed to prepare Christmas stockings for the annual Christmas party for foster children.

Mrs. Ellouis Melton gave a committee report on the New Madrid high school student-of-the-month project that was initiated in October by the club to promote good citizenship.

Each month a boy or girl who best meets the criteria set by the B&PW is chosen from the student body by an anonymous panel of teachers. At the end of the school year an Outstanding Student-of-the-Year will be selected from the eight recognized as Student-of-the-Month. A savings bond will be awarded to the Student-of-the-Year.

The club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 16 in the home of Mrs. Melton for a Christmas party. Members are requested to bring a $3 gift for exchange and a favorite snack dish of cookies, candy or dips.

Kegler's Korner

Looking over the bowling sheets that are turned over to me each week, I didn't see anything spectacular this week. It is going to be hard to beat Jo Arnold's feat of last week! I have big plans for bowling a 200 game this year which isn't much to my professional colleagues but believe you me when or should I say if it happens you can bet it will receive special notice. So much for chit-chat and on to the scores:

TUESDAY MORNING
HOUSEWIVES 11-5-74

Everyone must of had a hard weekend as there were no 200 games or 500 series which is very unusual! The Ten Pins had the high game and high team series with a 1044 and a 3013. Team scores were: Sparettes 3 - Our Gang 1, Town and Country 3- Hecklers 1, Ten Pins 4- Pin Pals 0, Alley Cats 0- Road Runners 4, Strikers 2 - Gutter Dusters 2, Goof Balls 3- Rollettes 1, Imperial Belles 3- Fantastic 5-1. America

America was named for Amerigo Vespucci (1454-1512), an Italian reputed to have made four voyages to the New World (1497-1503). German geographer Martin Waldseemuller first used the term "America" designating the New World in honor of the explorer, on a map in his book published in 1507.

Kitchen safety hints

If your clothes ever catch fire, don't run! Drop immediately to the floor or ground and roll to smother the flames. Teach children how to do this.

But, while you should know how to protect yourself in the event of a fire, there are things you can do to prevent the emergency from happening.

Most home fires start in the kitchen and relate to the kitchen stove. In a fact sheet, called "Kitchen Stove Safety", the Consumer Product Safety Commission points out some of the dangers and gives purchase, use and maintenance tips to prevent accidents. Single copies of the fact sheet are available free from Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

When you're buying a stove:

— Choose one with knobs difficult for children to turn on.

—Check for controls you can reach without having to stretch over burners.

—If you buy an electric stove, be sure it has signal lights to warn when burners are on. Be sure a gas stove has pilot lights for the burners and the oven.

When you are using the stove:

—Wear tight-fitting clothes. Loose sleeves are the cause of most clothing fires which start at the stove.

—Use potholders, not towels, to move pots. Towels could brush across k burner and catch fire.

—Don't hang curtains or dishtowels close to the stove.

—If the oven has no pilot light, don't turn on the gas until you have lighted a match. Otherwise gas could accumulate and cause an explosion.

—Never use flammable liquids near a gas stove. The pilot light can easily ignite the vapors causing an explosion.

Maui Business Can't Keep Up With Demand

By ROBERT MURPHY
Associated Press Writer

KAHULUI, Hawaii (AP) — The Kobayashi family on the island of Maui has a business problem at their potato chip factory that would be the dream of every potato chip company in the capitalistic world.

They produce a potato chip which is more expensive than other chips on the Hawaiian market, but which is so popular the family finds it hard to keep up with the demand.

The Kobayashis — father Yoshio, 71, and sons Dewey, 45, and Joe, 35 — run the family-owned Maui Potato Chip Co., whose "kitchen-cooked" chips are snapped up whenever they appear anywhere in Hawaii.

The family began their operation on this island in 1957 after being forced out of the grocery business by the large chain stores. They bought a small one-pot cooking operation and started experimenting with ways to make potato chips. After more than 15 years of experimenting, the Kobayashis have perfected a chip unlike any mass produced potato chip from the mainland — a chip that everyone in Hawaii wants, but only a few can get.

"We produce potato chips primarily for the people on Maui," said son Dewey. "Whenever we get requests from outside of this island, we try to fill the orders, but most of the time we can't.

And this is the family's main problem.

"It's a shame that we can't supply everyone's orders, but we're a small operation . . . and that's the key to our good potato chip," he said. "You can't produce our type chip on a large scale, believe me."

The Kobayashi's Maui chip, first of all, is thicker than the conventional chip from the mainland and it's brownish in color, almost burnt looking. It's usually larger and slightly brittle too.

"The darker color of our chips is caused from the sugar content in the potatoes we use," said Kobayashi. "The larger companies use the kind of potatoes that make a white-looking chip . . . which is okay if you're only interested in how a chip looks and not how it tastes."

Only nine employes and the three Kobayashis make up the entire work force at the small chip-making factory. The potato peeling and cutting is done by machinery, but the rest is done by hand, including the cooking, salting and packing.

Yoshio Kobayashi, the father, handles all the cooking — which is done every week day from 11 p.m. to 1 p.m. the next day. Dewey and his brother Joe handle the mass packing and shipping chores.

The plant consumes about 30 sacks of potatoes, all imported from California and Washington, per day.

The fuel crisis has also had its effect on the operation. Diesel fuel is used to heat the large cooking vats, and since the company is allocated fuel by its 1972 usage level, "company growth" is being held back.

Kobayashi, even though he makes what he calls "the best chip in the world," is not his own biggest fan. He says he prefers baked potatoes to his chips.

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Assured of a winning season in his first-year as a head coach at the collegiate level, Southeast Missouri State University's Jim Lohr takes his football team to Kirksville Saturday for the 1:30 p.m. season finale against Northeast Missouri State University.

Lohr's Indians ran their record to 6-4 last Saturday, beating Lincoln University 19-3. A win over Northeast Missouri State would up the Tribe's MIAA mark to 4-2 and assure the Indians of at least a third-place tie in the conference standings.

Northeast Missouri State's record is just the opposite of Southeast Missouri State's. The Bulldogs are 2-3 in MIAA play and 4-6 overall.

Lohr has a healthy respect for the Bulldogs, despite their below .500 showing. He noted that the Bulldogs -- a young team -- lost three games in a row in the middle of the season when they had "a bunch of injuries," and added, "Their young kids are real good football players, and when they've been healthy, they've been tough."

Both the Bulldogs and the Indians operate from a veer offense, and both strive for a balanced passing and rushing attack.

Northeast Missouri State's top rusher is freshman Steve Powell, a 6-0, 180-pound running back from Kirkwood. He has carried 140 times for 799 yards. Hampered since Nov. 9 by a sprained ankle, Powell played in the Bulldogs' 31-7 loss last week to Southwest Missouri State University of Springfield, but rushed just nine times for 35 yards.

Quarterbacking Coach Randy Lukehart's Bulldogs is junior Tom Williamson, a 6-0, 180-pounder from Unionville. He has completed 77 of 189 pass attempts for 978 yards.

Powell's counterparts on the Southeast Missouri State team are running backs Bobby Everage, a 5-8, 175-pound junior from Alton, Ill., and Anthony Wallace, a 5-11, 180-pound junior from West Palm Beach, Fla. Everage has gained 641 yards in 103 attempts, and Wallace has totaled 506 yards in 116 tries.

The Indians' signal caller is Rick Wieser, a 6-1, 185-pound junior from Topeka, Kan., who has 73 of 168 aerials for 1,050 yards.

To win Saturday, Lohr feels his team must put together two good halves two good halves of of football -- something the Tribe has not really done since Oct. 19.

The Indians have scored 83 first-half points in their last four games. They have been outscored 39-17 during the second halves of those same games.

Fumbles at crucial times have hurt the Indians throughout the fall, and the Southeast Missouri State coach indicated this remains a concern as the team enters its final game. Through 10 contests the Tribe has lost an average of 2.5 fumbles per game.

Lohr declared this is not a natural consequence of the high-risk veer offense which his team employs. Rather, he said, it is the result of various types of mistakes which the players and coaches have been unable to correct.

One Southeast Missouri State starter, cornerback and kickoff return specialist, Larry Hearon, definitely will not play Saturday. The 5-11, 185-pound junior from Tutwiler, Miss., underwent surgery early this week for an appendicitis. His replacement is likely to be freshman Dan Wieser, a 6-0, 170-pounder from Topeka, Kan.

Doubtful are senior Carl Gross, a 6-4, 235-pound tight end from Cape Girardeau who sustained a scratched eyeball against Lincoln, and sophomore Bruce Thomas, a 6-2, 235-pound defensive lineman from Hopkinsville, Ky., who has a dislocated finger.

If Gross is unable to go, his substitute will be freshman Randy Roddy, a 6-0, 195-pounder from Ballwin. Thomas' replacement would probably be senior Bob Johnson, a 6-2, 228-pounder from Hillsboro, Ill.

The series between the Indians and the Bulldogs began in 1924. Southeast Missouri State won last year's game, 14-13, but Northeast Missouri State leads the series 29-14-1.

Panthers show deadly offense

WARDELL-- The Lilbourn Panthers walloped the Risco Tigers 90- 71 in the winners bracket and the East Prairie Eagles swept past the New Madrid Indians 69- 61 in the losers bracket of the North Pemiscot Invitational tournament here Thursday night.

The East Prairie Eagles used a steady offensive attack and a press defense to get past the Indians. The Eagles took an 18-12 first period lead on the steady shooting of Williford, who ended the game with 21. New Madrid battled back in the second period with the big gun, Steve Glenn supplying the offense and trailed by three, 31- 28 at the half. Glenn kept pouring in the points in the third period but the New Madrid defense couldn't contain Williford and Bradley and the Eagles increased their lead, outscoring the Indians 16-12 in the quarter.

New Madrid tried in vain to battle back in the last period but the surprising Eagles kept the pressure on with fine shooting. Glenn ended the game with 32 points for the Indians.

In the winners bracket, the Lilbourn Panthers looked like state champions with their quickness and shooting as they jumped to a quick lead in the opening minutes of the first quarter, using a full court press to steal the ball before the slower Tigers could get a shot at the basket. Lilbourn owned a 27- 10 lead at the clost of the first quarter and for allintents and purposes the game was over.

Coach Stan Whitson played Andy Smelser with a broken finger which cut down the all-staters effectiveness but the Panthers speed and quickness was more than the Tigers could cope with. Lilbourn began to use some reserves in the second quarter and Risco cut the lead a little but coach Bob Phelps has a fine team and the subs were able to keep the lead intact.

Risco took advantage of the substitutes in the third period and outscored the Panthers 24-23 and beat the Panthers in the fourth period 23- 20.

All- stater Frankie Robinson canned 20 points and was followed by Dan Treadwell and Ernest McFerron with 19 and 18 respectively. Newcomer to the Panthers, Archie Boyd dumped in 15 points and took care of the boards.

Friday night Gideon plays Pemiscot County in the loser bracket and North Pemiscot takes on Delta C- 7 in the winners bracket at 8:00.

WFL troubles mount

The World Football League, hoping to attract to its post-season games some of those paying fans who stayed away in droves during the regular season, kicked off its playoffs Thursday night with Florida and the Hawaiians posting victories.

The Blazers dumped the Philadelphia Bell 18-3 and the Hawaiians topped the Southern California Sun 32-14. But if the WFL is looking to the playoffs to patch up some of the financial leaks in its rapidly sinking ship, it better look again.

Sun officials announced a paid crowd of only 11,430 in a light rain at Anaheim, the team's lowest turnout of the year, while just 9,712 fans showed up in Orlando for the Blazers' game.

Meanwhile, the WFL's financial picture, none too bright to start with, got still bleaker Thursday as the Internal Revenue Service continued to lean all over the league. The IRS filed a $105,551 lien against the Jacksonville Sharks, claiming the club owes at least that much in back taxes.

The IRS earlier had filed liens against Birmingham and Portland, and a spokesman said if the WFL teams do not make good on the money, the IRS could foreclose on the franchises.

The IRS claims Birmingham owes 237,000 in back taxes and has reportedly filed a claim for an additional $160,000 against owner Bill Putnam. The city, county, state and a local bank also have lodged claims against the Americans.

The IRS is after Portland to the tune of $168,000.

Players, many of whom haven't been paid in weeks, were supposed to divide 70 per cent of Thursday night's gate receipts among them. Florida and Philadelphia players were expected to get about $743 each while Hawaiian and Southern Cal players were supposed to get $662 apiece.

Both Memphis and Birmingham drew first-round byes. Memphis hosts Florida next Friday while Birmingham entertains Hawaii next Wednesday. The winners will meet in the World Bowl Thurs., Dec. 5, at a site to be determined later.

Florida got all the points it needed to win the first time Philadelphia got the ball. Bell running back Claude Watts fumbled on his own 32-yard line, Blazer safety Rickie Harris scooped the ball up and raced 32 yards for a touchdown.

Quarterback Bob Davis connected with Greg Latta on a 45-yard pass play for the other Blazer TD and Dave Strock added a 24-yard field goal. Jerry Warren accounted for the Philadelphia offense with a 37-yard field goal.

Southern California got off to a rocky start even before the kickoff when running back Kermit Johnson, the team's leading rusher, and guard Booker Brown failed to show up for the game. No reason was given for the absence of the two rookies, but Coach Tom Fears said both were suspended.

The Hawaiians raced to a 17-0 lead and were never headed. Al Davis ran for a pair of short-yardage touchdowns and Randy Johnson tossed two scoring passes for the winners.

Tony Adams combined with Keith Denson on a 46-yard pass play for the Sun's only touchdown.

Big weekend in NFL

Monday night was very good to the Oakland Raiders. The Los Angeles Rams hope it'll be good to them, too. But both teams will have to be good on Sunday.

Last Sunday, the Raiders defeated San Diego 17-10 to clinch at least a tie for the American Conference's West Division title, then locked it up outright when the runner-up Denver Broncos lost to visiting Kansas City on Monday night.

Now it's the Rams' chance. They can clinch a tie for the National Conference West title with a victory over the Minnesota Vikings. And if they get past that first big hurdle, they can lock it up if the runner-up New Orleans Saints lose to visiting Pittsburgh on Monday night.

In Sunday's other National Football League games, it's St. Louis at the New York Giants, Philadelphia at Washington, Dallas at Houston, Miami at the New York Jets, Buffalo at Cleveland, New England at Baltimore, Cincinnati at Kansas City, San Diego at Green Bay, Chicago at Detroit, Denver at Oakland and Atlanta at San Francisco.

The Rams won't be the only team on the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum turf with visions of titles dancing in their heads. The Vikings, too, can lock up a crown of their own, in the NFC's Central Division, and they can do it Sunday — but they need a lot more help. It'll take a Minnesota victory and losses by the Packers and Lions to sew it up.

The Rams and Vikes own identical 8-3 records — just as they owned identical 6-0 records when they met in 1973. "It's going to be interesting, just like last year," says Minnesota Coach Brant.

Grant would no doubt like the outcome to be the same as a year ago. The Vikings stayed unbeaten, edging Los Angeles 10-9, and ran their perfect string to nine in a row before losing to Atlanta.

"We haven't played against James Harris before," Grant said of the Rams' quarterback. "But from what we've seen, he certainly has a strong arm."

The Vikes have one, too, of course, in Fran Tarkenton, the No. 5 passer in the NFC just behind Harris.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams said Friday their game Sunday against Minnesota in Memorial Coliseum will be blacked out for television in the Los Angeles area.

A spokesman said that 72 hours before game time, there were 7,578 tickets remaining unsold for the stadium with its 91,040 capacity.

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros are to open their 1975 National League baseball season April 7 in the Astrodome against the Atlanta Braves.

Spec Richardson, the Astros' general manager, also said the league opener will be preceded by three home exhibition gams against Texas of the American League on April 4-6.

The initial league home stand includes three games against the Braves and three with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Brownsville police arrested Saul Munoz Medina, a professional boxer from Mexico City, on a felony charge in connection with the theft of two watches, worth $2,200, from a Brownsville store.

Officers said Medina, 23, who fights under the name "Saul Montana," was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Adolfo Betancourt. Bond was set at $4,000 and Munoz Medina was taken to the Cameron County jail.

Medina is ranked seventh among bantamweight fighters and is scheduled to fight Carlos Mendoza of Panama Nov. 31 in Matamoros, Mexico.

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers, riding a four-game National Football Leage winning streak, announced Thursday their game this Sunday in the Astrodome against the Dallas Cowboys was a sellout and would be televised in Houston.

It was the first regular season sellout for the Oilers since 1972.

The Oilers have also sold about 3,000 of the 5,000 standing room spaces at the Astrodome.

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — The New Hampshire Greyhound Racing Commission has awarded 401 racing dates for the 1975 season to the state's two dog tracks.

Hinsdale Raceway received 165 dates, five fewer than in 1974, starting Jan. 8 and ending Dec. 31, with 29 scheduled for matinee and night racing.

Yankee Greyhound at Seabrook was awarded 240 dates, nine more than in 1974, beginning Jan. 2 and ending Dec. 30, with 53 having afternoon and night racing.

'M Night' event slated at Morley

MORLEY — "Church: the Sunday Night Place for Training ... Family Style" is the theme for the Charleston Baptist Association "M Night" program at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Morley Baptist Church.

Old-fashioned day planned at Calvary

Sunday has been designated Old-Fashioned Sunday at Calvary Assembly Church, located at the corner of Scott and Trotter streets, according to the Rev. T. A. McDonough, pastor.

The auditorium will be decorated with variety of antique articles, and everyone is encouraged to dress old-fashioned. A prize will be awarded the one judged to be dressed in the most original style.

Although old-fashionied dress is encouraged, Pastor McDonough said, it is not a requirement for those who do not desire to do so.

Sunday attendance goal is 300, which would be a new high at Calvary.

Old-fashioned songs will be featured, along with an old-fashioned gospel sermon.

Calvary Assembly is an interdenominational, full gospel church. Only eight months old, its average Sunday school attendance for November so far is 280.

Sunday School hour begins at 9:30 a.m., with a class for every age, including no age limit auditorium class taught by the pastor, which consistently averages over 100 and has a goal of 125 Sunday

The Sunday morning worship service follows at 10:30 a.m. and features congregational, special and choir singing under the direction of the minister of music Larry Davis and a Bible-centered message by the pastor.

Children's home honors Dr. Blake

BRIDGETON— The annual Thanksgiving offering received by the Missouri Baptist Children's Home has been designated "30 Love" in honor of Dr. Edgar E. Blake, administrator for the past 30 years who has announced his retirement, effective Dec. 31.

Dr. Blake became administrator Jan. 1, 1945 at the beginning of a post- war period when unwanted babies and parentless children were on the increase. The years since have seen many changes in child care.

Organized in 1886, the Missouri Baptist Children's Home, located at Lindbergh and St. Charles Rock Road in Bridgeton, has expanded its ministry from the custodial care of babies to include foster home and adoptive care programs of infants and children through high school age, service to unwed mothers and more recently, a day nursery program.

Under Dr. Blake's leadership the program has moved rapidly into shorter-term care from an average of two years per child to an average length of stay of less than one year in the institution.

Dr. Blake came to the home after several years as a school administrator in rural Missouri and in St. Louis County. He attended Mayfield College at Marble Hill and graduated from Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau. He received a bachelor of science degree in education at the University of Missouri-Columbia and a master of arts degree from Washington University in St. Louis. He also received an honorary doctor's degree from William Jewell College at Liberty.

Although he and his wife, Gertrude (Farrar) Blake, have no children of their own, Dr. Blake has served the needs of children for 30 years.

Scripture: Jonah 1-4

BEYOND RACIAL BOUNDARIES

Today the world is facing many problems that are economic in nature. Nevertheless, such problems have changed the views of many on nationalism and foreign aid.

God's ultimate goal is the well-being of every person, regardless of economic or racial barriers. The different races, cultures, religions, and economic groups must somehow come together.

Today's Scripture is quite brief. The Book of Jonah, written in the 8th Century B.C., is directed against all pride, arrogance, and provincialism. It is appropriate reading for us today.

There are many Jonahs in our society today. Roland Murphy says "The humorous satire of the book will not disguise the fact that this little work is one of the most important in the Old Testament."

Jonah no doubt is better known as the person who was swallowed by a "great fish." First, Jonah is a disobedient prophet who later becomes obedient. He is also termed a "loner", one who thinks only of himself as he sits and sulks.

Jonah felt that God was to help his people rather than other groups, such as the 120,000 inhabitants of Nineveh. Jonah believed those persons were wicked and didn't deserve God's blessing. As one writer noted, sending a prophet to Nineveh was "like sending a lowly missionary into Soviet Russia to condemn its sins."

There are three major lessons here, according to George W. Frey. (1) God loves all people; (2) All people have the capacity to receive and experience the grace of God, and (3) Israel is blessed with a knowledge of God and is responsible for sharing this knowledge of God with others.

Allegorical interpretations vary about Jonah and the encounter with the whale. Dr. Murphy believes the "whole thrust of the book goes beyond a mere story and takes on the character of parable."

To some the scene of Jonah being thrown into the sea and being caught by the whale symbolizes our death. His being spewed out on the coast symbolizes the resurrection. And his rest under the plant symbolizes the immortal rest.

Throughout his career as a prophet, Jonah becomes discouraged and angry. On one occasion he is willing to die rather than face the problems ahead.

Jonah could not comprehend how ridiculous some of his actions were. In seeking to run away from God he learns as we all do that God is everywhere.

While Jonah was waiting outside the city to see what would befall Nineveh, God caused a caster oil plant suddenly to rise beside him to provide shade.

Shortly after that God sent a worm to kill the plant. When the plant withered away, Jonah was upset, asking God to kill him too.

Thus our lesson concludes with a question when God asks Jonah:

"You pity the plant, for which you did not labor, nor did you make it grow, which came into being in a night, and perished in a night.

"And should not I pity Nineveh, that great city, in which there are more than a hundred and twenty thousand persons who do not know their right hand from their left, and also much cattle?"

Jonah eventually was a success in preaching God's word. He was able to break down some of his nationalistic views. He was able to spread the word into lands he earlier had rejected.

In the lessons that follow we will discuss the New Testament to see more of the ways a living God seeks man.

President Ford heads drive to promote Bible

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford and a cross-country lineup of congressmen, governors, mayors, businessmen and religious leaders are heading a drive to boost the Bible as a basic source of integrity and idealism.

"This year we need the good book in a very bad way," says the theme for the campaign, the annual interfaith observance of National Bible Week from this Sunday, Nov. 24, through Dec. 1.

In the eight-day period, specific passages are recommended for reading each day. Also, a blitz of public service advertisements and broadcast spots have gone out for use during the week.

As honorary chairman of the effort, Ford issued a message commending it and declaring his own "special regard for Scriptures as a unifying source of wisdom and inspiration."

He said "greater knowledge, use and understanding" of the Bible can be a "strong force for good in our daily lives," and added: "Bible reading has been a tradition in my family for as long as I can remember."

The President, an Episcopalian, cited his favorite verses, Proverbs 3: 5-6: "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths."

He said he has made that passage "my daily prayer." It also was the passage on which he took his oath of office.

Special proclamations for the Bible-reading observance are being issued by more than 400 mayors and 35 governors, most of whom already have done so.

The week is sponsored by the Laymen's National Bible Committee, a New York-based organization of Protestant, Roman Catholic, Eastern Orthodox and Jewish laity.

Cooperating are agencies off the U.S. Catholic Conference, the National Council of Churches, the Greek Orthodox archdiocese, a Jewish committee, and for the first time, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon).

Utah's Gov. Calvin L. Rampton, a Democrat and himself a Mormon, is chairman of the governor's committee for the week. He said:

"There is no more certain guide in these uncertain times than the holy Bible."

Thoughts

From The Living Bible

Stay always within the boundaries where God's love can reach and bless you. Wait patiently for the eternal life that our Lord Jesus Christ in his mercy is going to give you. Try to help those who argue against you. Be merciful to those who doubt. Save some by snatching them as from the very flames of hell itself. And as for others, help them to find the Lord by being kind to them, but be careful that you yourselves aren't pulled along into their sins.
Jude 1:21-23

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

THE BIBLE

162. Solomon Begins the Temple

King Hiram of Tyre, who had greatly admired David, sent his ambassadors to congratulate Solomon for his kingship. So King Solomon sent a reply to King Hiram: "Thou knowest how that David my father could not build an house unto the name of the Lord his God for the wars which were about him on every side.... But now the Lord my God hath given me rest on every side, so that there is neither adversary nor evil occurrent. And, behold, I purpose to build an house unto the name of the Lord my God...." (I Kings 5:3-5)

Solomon asked Hiram to assist him by sending his excellent woodsmen to the mountains of Lebanon to cut cedar timber to be used in the temple. In return, Solomon supplied Hiram with huge quantities of food.

Solomon also drafted his own people to help in the cutting of the timber and stone for the temple.

Survey distributed in Bootheel area

An occupational survey is being distributed to residents of six Bootheel counties as part of an effort to identify the potential labor force, in the area.

The survey is sponsored by the Missouri State Employment Service, the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission and the Bootheel Industrial Development Council.

An occupational survey covers both employed and unemployed persons in all labor catagories.

The information is considered very important to new or expanding industry. Before a company will spend large sums of money for new or expanded facilities they have to know if they will be able to find sufficient personel.

Everyone between the years of 16 and 65 is being asked to fill out the questionnaire, regardless of their present employment status. Forms are being mailed to all homes, and extra forms are available at post offices.

The forms do not require any signature and personal information will be kept confidential.

All information from the forms will be coded and processed according to zip code so communities can have information concerning their own labor force.

The deadline for returning the forms is Dec. 11. Information is expected to be ready shortly after the first of the year.

Counties included in the survey are Scott, Mississippi, Stoddard, New Madrid, Pemiscot, and Dunklin.

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Nov. 22, the 326th day of 1974. There are 39 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1963, President John Kennedy was assassinated as he rode in a motorcade in Dallas, Texas.

On this date:

In 1643, the French explorer, Robert de la Salle, was born.

In 1774, the founder of the British Empire in India, Lord Robert Clive, died.

In 1890, the late Charles de Gaulle was born in Lille, France.

In 1906, the SOS signal for ships in distress was adopted by an international convention in Berllin.

In 1943, a wartime conference was held in Cairo by President Franklin Roosevelt, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

In 1972, President Richard Nixon lifted a 22-year-old ban on travel to mainland China by U.S. ships and planes.

Ten years ago: Roman Catholic bishops dispersed after ten weeks of debate at the Second Vatican Council, with a promise of a greater role in forming church policy.

Five years ago: The Apollo 12 astronauts made a safe splashdown in the Pacific after making the second manned landing on the moon.

One year ago: Egyptian and Israeli generals met on the road between Cairo and Suez to grapple with the problem of disengaging their forces under a cease-fire agreement.

Today's birthdays: Songwriter Hoagy Carmichael is 75. Heiress Doris Duke is 62. Actor Robert Vaughn is 42.

Thought for today: An inabiity to stay quiet is one of the most conspicuous faiings of mankind — Walter Bagehot, Engish economist and writer, 1826-1877.

Dr. Lamb

Ulcerative colitis cause unknown

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 37. For about six years I've had a severe case of ulcerative colitis. Seldom do I see any articles about it, and I find most people don't know what it is or anything about it.

A few weeks ago when I was released from the hospital, my doctor, the leading internist in this area, suggested an operation. This involves all of my colon and part of my small intestine.

My former doctor cautioned me continually about cancer. Some of my latest spells have been more emotional and I've had vomiting. Others have suggested I try having either allergy tests made or admitting myself to the state mental hospital for help before I go through the operation. What would you suggest?

DEAR READER — I wish there were a good answer. The cause of ulcerative colitis is not known. And, we know just about as much about its treatment.

As you know the most common features of the disease are diarrhea, often with blood and mucus, and lower abdominal crampy pain. The symptoms are variable. Some people even have changes in the rectum or lower colon and have few, if any, noticeable symptoms. Others have severe diarrhea, hemorrhage and complications such as perforation of the colon.

It can be, and no doubt in your case is, a difficult disease. It can become chronic with recurring attacks of severe diarrhea and bleeding. Weight loss is common with it.

Milk and milk products seem to cause attacks in some patients. At one time it was believed that an allergic reaction to milk might be the cause. In any case I believe any one with this problem should avoid milk and milk products and goods made with lots of milk, like milk gravy and sauces.

Some cases seem to be started off with a diarrhea infectious illness. In some ways the disease acts like the immune mechanism of the body has gone haywire and the body is trying to reject the lining of the colon as foreign tissue. The disease, incidentally, can involve the rectum, colon, and terminal part of the small intestine.

I can't judge what you should do about surgery, but I can suggest that your fine internist has a good basis for his recommendation. Six years of trouble with involvement of the colon and terminal ileum tells me you have a severe case. Many patients do surprisingly well after surgery.

Cancer of the colon is much more common in patients with ulcerative colitis. And, less than 30 per cent of them survive five years if a cancer occurs. That is why your first doctor was concerned.

Don't waste your time on allergy tests. They won't help solve your problem. And, forget about the emotional problems, they often go along with the disease, and you may find out that your problems in this area are markedly improved when you have improved physically. Now, not everyone needs surgery for ulcerative colitis, but in selected cases that have not gone into remission and have not done well with good medical treatment, then it is often a good choice.

What's the law?

The case of the frustrated F.B.I.

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Rocky was a man with the courage of his nonconvictions. A racketeer, he didn't know for how long, however, his luck was going to hold out. The F.B.I. was investigating his activities and he felt certain that his erstwhile pal, Fingers, was about to rat on him. As a precaution, therefore, Rocky made it a point to "advise" his erstwhile pal, Fingers, that if he put the finger on him, he might end up under a brook.

Not much of a swimmer, Fingers readily heeded the advice. The F.B.I., however, took exception to it and, with its investigation frustrated, had Rocky arrested and charged with violating a law that made it a crime to interfere with the "administration of justice."

"He sealed the lips of Fingers so effectively," the judge was told, "that Fingers had less to say than Harpo Marx."

"I didn't interfere with the administration of justice," insisted Rocky. "All I did was to advise my friend, Fingers, not to talk to the F.B.I. I explained that they weren't his type of people. Besides," he added, "the F.B.I. doesn't administer justice. Heaven only knows what they do with it."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you jail Rocky for interfering with the administration of justice?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that Rocky had not interfered with the "administration of justice" since the F. B. I. is an investigating rather than a judicial arm of the government and does not administer justice.

As for the annual loss in the period attributed to breast cancer, it was 5 locally.

Nationally, cancer remains the number two killer, second only to heart disease.

In Scott County, in the three-year period, some 14 per cent of all deaths were due to cancer, the figures show. Elsewhere in the country the average was 17 per cent.

Currently, about one person out of every three who get cancer is being cured, states the American Cancer Society. It defines "cured" as a five-year survival after treatment with no recurrence of the disease.

Still better results could be obtained, it says, if people would get regular medical checkups.

Heart victim dies awaiting ambulance

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark.— A Chickasawba Hospital spokesman Thursday labeled as "extremely rare and unfortunate" an incident Wednesday in which a woman died while it took an ambulance 21 minutes to get her to the hospital a mile away.

Mrs. Lula Huffman, 80, of Blytheville was stricken with a heart attack after a minor auto accident near the hospital.

"If I don't have a heart attack over this, nothing will kill me," Patrolman David Sims quoted her as jesting before being asked to sit in her car and wait for the officers to question her.

"She went back to her car about 145 feet away- while I finished talking to the other driver, and all of a sudden I looked up and saw her slumped over. So I ran down there and started administering heart massage," Sims said.

A police dispatcher said he called for an ambulance at 1:34 p.m. and was told none was immediately available.

A Fire Department rescue squad was then dispatched and arrived six minutes later. Patrolman Sims was still administering heart massage and mouth- to- mouth resuscitation.

"I kept working and waiting...At first she'd had no pulse and I couldn't feel her heartbeat, but later she was coming back.

"I'd say she died about two minutes before the ambulance got there," Sims said.

Mrs. Huffman was pronounced dead at the hospital at 1:55 p.m.

Both of the ambulances stationed at the hospital had just returned from rural locations "and were being washed and gassed up," a hospital spokesman said.

"In all fairness it should be pointed out that the ambulance crew could have done nothing more than the policeman and the fire department rescue squad already on the scene did, if it had gotten there earlier," the spokesman said.

"Unfortunately, someone from the surgery crew who would have normally been present in the dispatch room when the ambulance people are outside, must have left the room for, I'd say, no more than a minute.

"This made the police dispatcher have to use the telephone instead of the radio and go through the front office, who in turn, had to get a hold of the ambulance people in this instance," he said.

Hospital officials hope to avoid the possibility of such a situation in the future, he said, by having ambulance radios altered to connect directly with police.

SATURDAY HIGHLIGHTS

7:00- ABC— YOGI'S GANG— An effective learning series, in which popular Yogi Bear takes his friends Huckleberry Hound, Snagglepuss, Top Cat, Magilla Gorilla, and Boo- Boo, on a weekly comedy adventure to fight the enemies of nature and man. Today's episode will be "Mr. Smog"

7:25 ABC— SCHOOLHOUSE ROCK— A series of animated films designed to teach through action and original music and lively lyrics

7:30 ABC— BUGS BUNNY— The most beloved character in animation, Bugs Bunny, stars in this cartoon, carrots and all, with some of his greatest comedy capers. Joining Bugs are his old friends, such as Yosemite Sam and Elmer. Fudd. Each week the most famous rabbit in history manages to escape the most elaborate traps ever laid. Each week, Bugs outwits his adversaries with humor and wit.

8:00 ABC— HONG KONG PHOOEY— A weekly romp by Penrod Pooch, known to the world only as a meek janitor in a police station, who in reality is the fearless King Phooey, scourge of wrongdoers everywhere. Phooey, however, is as hapless as he is fearless, depending as he does upon a correspondence course in the martial arts. Other characters in this animated pure- fun entry include Spot, Pooch's loyal, and often helpful, pet cat; and his trusting friend, Rosemary. Today's episode will be "From Bad To Verse/Kong And The Counterfeiters"

8:25 ABC— SCHOOLHOUSE ROCK— A series of animated films designed to teach through action and original music and lively lyrics

8:30 ABC— GILLIGAN— An animated show with characters derived from the popular TV comedy, "Gilligan's Island," but with a strong emphasis on positive social values. The program depicts seven people of very diverse personalities marooned together on a desert island. The traditional zaniness of Gilligan and his friends will still be there- woven into stories which relate to prejudice, peer pressure, the balance of nature, and other themes. Today's episode will be "Disappearing Act"

9:00 ABC— DEVLIN— An animated dramatic adventure series about three orphaned youngsters, who have one overriding aim- staying together as a family. To help accomplish this, Ernie Devlin, a 20- year- old college student, supports the family with his extraordinary skills as a motorcycle stunt rider. His brother, 18- year- old Todd, whose amusing personality blends a genius for math and mechanics with a peculair indulgence in superstititons, keeps Ernie's cycling equipment in top shape. And his 11- year- old sister, Sandy, helps stabilize the trip by imposing a continuity of home life. Their problems, their quarrels, and especially their interest in each other's welfare, form the basis of this series. Today's episode will be "Jester's Secret"

9:30 ABC— KORG— Live- action drama depicting the struggle of survival of a family in the Neanderthal era. The show will share the primitive experiences and discoveries of Korg and his family of five as they make their way in a world where the unknown was never more than a few hundred feet away. Whether they're learning how to protect their life- giving fire, encountering strange animals who share their land, or coping with the hardships of changing seasons, Korg and his family will be a weekly source of fascination. Today's episode will be "The Ancient One"

9:55 ABC— SCHOOLHOUSE ROCK— A series of animated films designed to teach through action and original music and lively lyrics

10:00 ABC— SUPER FRIENDS— An animated comedy/adventure program that involves four famous heroes- Superman, Batman, Wonderwoman and Aquaman- who get involved in various imaginative adventures with two personable teenagers, Wendy and Marvin. Each week our "Super Friends" will be involved in a situation that, through comedy and adventure, culminates in a resolution of the story with a pro- social effect. Today's episode will be "Dr. Pelagian's War"

10:55 ABC— SCHOOLHOUSE ROCK— A series of animated films designed to teach through action and original music and lively lyrics

11:00 ABC— THESE ARE THE DAYS— The rich quality of American rural life shortly after the turn of the century is recaptured in this portrait of the Day family. Martha Day, widowed but energetic enough for two people, is making a go of her farm together with her father- in- law, Grandpa Jefferson Day. She also faces an even more challenging task- raising three children, ages 12- 16. The children are each experiencing difficult growing pains, but even in the worst of circumstances never lose their powerful sense of concern for each other and for the family as a whole. Today's episode will be "Most Precious Gift Of All"

NBC SPECIAL EVENTS TO BE TELEVISED DURING 1974-1975 SEASON

The NBC Television Network again will provide color coverage during the 1974-75 season of several of America's most prestigious special events.

On Thursday, Nov. 28, NBC-TV will colorcast three hours of festivities at New York City's 48th annual Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade. This coverage will focus on the pre-parade activities (8-9 a.m. CDT), including the official start of the event, and the traditional parade along Broadway to New York's famous Herald Square (9 a.m. to 11 a.m. CDT).

The parade will include the huge Goodyear figure balloons in their only public appearance of the year; stars of TV, stage and recordings; colorful floats, award-winning bands and specialty acts.

The 41st annual King Orange Jamboree, more familiar to the public as the Orange Bowl Parade, will be carried by NBC-TV from Miami, Fla., Tuesday, Dec. 31 (7-8 p.m. CDT). This year's theme is "Fantasies and Fables and of Myths and Legends."

The Orange Bowl Parade is noted for its distinctively-styled floats, with performing groups accompanying many of them. The Orange Bowl Queen and her court of four princesses will preside over this annual New Year's Eve event.

NBC-TV will usher in 1975 by presenting the 86th annual Tournament of Roses Parade from Pasadena, Calif., Wednesday, Jan. 1 (10¾30 a.m. - 12:45 p.m. CDT).

All the floats in the parade will be decorated in floral displays to represent the theme, "Heritage of America." The parade also will include the Rose Queen and her court of six Rose Princesses, many celebrities and marching bands from various states and foreign countries.

In the Spring of 1975, NBC-TV will televise the 47th annual Oscar Awards program of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Originating from the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center, the program will give recognition to film achievements for 1974.

The lavish and eagerly-anticipated ceremonies are always enveloped in an aura of glamor because of the presence of top personalities in the motion picture industry as presenters, as performers and as members of the audience.

SPEAKING OF THE MOVIES

By Robert Klinge

"Juggernut", a gripping suspense drama set on the high seas, stars a brilliant international cast, headed by Richard Harris and Omar Sharrif with David Hemmings, Anthony Hopkins, Shirley Knight, Ian Holm, Clifton James and Roy Kinnear.

Most of the action takes place aboard a 25,000 ton luxury liner, Britannic, on a holiday cruise with nearly 1,000 passengers and crew members aboard. Suddenly the holiday atmosphere is shattered by a threat against the vessel and its human cargo.

The picture was literally launched at the English Port of Southhampton when Lester and his company set sail into the gail tossed seas off the coast of Britain. In their 16 days at sea, some 75 actors and technicians 300 extras and a ships working crew of 400 covered, 2,000 nautical miles.

The final four days of the trip was spent in the English Channel. The Britannic anchored at night in Torbay, filming a few miles off shore with Richard Harris, a half dozen stunt men and a private navy of support vessels.

If you thought "Poseidon Adventure" was a thriller, then you must see this production of "Juggernaut", I guarantee you it will have you hanging on to the arms of your seats for dear life.

If you haven't been to the movies lately, then I suggest you see this film. "Movies are Contagious — (and I guarantee, this will make you want to) Be A Carrier." Make your plans today ... We'd love to see you at the movies.

'BORN FREE'

ADAMSONS HALF UNSCRUPULOUS HUNTER.

Threatened by the loss of his land to the government, which is seeking to create more farmland, Rob Mallory (John De Villiers) teams up with a hunter and tries to sell his animals at a huge profit in "The White Rhino," to be colorcast on NBC Television Network's "Born Free," Monday, Nov. 25 (7-8 p.m. CST).

When the Adamsons (Gary Collins and Diana Muldaur) learn Mallory has allied with Willis (George Sewell), they watch the pair's activities and eventually come up with evidence to revoke the hunter's license.

One of the animals caught in the hunt is a rare white rhino and through the efforts of Mallory's granddaughter (Dawn Lyn) and the Adamsons, it is able to give birth after a narrow escape from the hunters. Barry Crane directed Hesper Anderson's teleplay.

"POLICE STORY'

Tuesdays, NBC Television Network (In Color, 9-10 p.m. CDT)

"Police Story," the NBC Television Network's anthology series, has been critically acclaimed by press and public as the most authentic and realistic program of its type. Also attesting to the very favorable impression the series has made in its intial year is the fact that several police academies have requested prints of certain "Police Story" episode for training purposes.

Policemen are shown as real people, at work in realistic situations, and they also are shown with their shortcomings as well as their virtues.

Joseph Wambaugh, who created the concept for the series and who serves as production consultant, knows what he's talking about. He joined the Los Angeles police department in 1960 and was a member of the force for almost 14 years. He also is the author of three best- selling books about policemen – "The New Centurions," "The Blue Knight" and "The Onion Field."

A different section of the police department is featured each week. As an anthology, it has no recurring stars.

The series is a woman's show as well as a man's. As one female viewer observed: "The women in the various segments are never mere decorations or sex objects."

"Police Story," a Columbia Pictures Television Production in association with NBC-TV, is produced by Stanley Kallis. David Gerber is executive producer.

HALLMARK HALL OF FAME PRESENTS

"THE GATHERING STORM"

HALLMARK HALL OF FAME: "The Gathering Storm" -- Richard Burton stars as Winston Churchill in this drama special focusing on events which led to the outbreak of World War II. It is based on the first volume of Churchill's memoirs of that holocaust. (Color)

Winston Churchill's chronicle of events which exploded into the second World War, "The Gathering Storm," is dramatized in the "Hallmark Hall of Fame" special starring Richard Burton as Churchill. It will be colorcast on the NBC Television Network Friday, Nov. 29 (7:30-9 p.m. CST), the eve of the 100th anniversary of Churchill's birth.

The Churchill book, first volume of his World War II memoirs, has as its theme, "How the English-speaking peoples through their unwisdom, carelessness and good nature allowed the wicked to re-arm." This TV adaptation by Colin Morris begins in the spring of 1936 when Churchill, as a member of Parliament and through his speeches and writings, warns about the threat posed by the Fascist dictators -- warnings ignored by his country. It concludes when Churchill makes his first speech as Prime Minister to the Parliment of war-ravaged England in 1940. He vows to fight until victory comes and tells those assembled: "I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat."

As the drama unfolds, some of the names famous on the world stage in the 1930s and through World War II come to life. These include: Hitler, and his ambassador to England (and later Nazi foreign minister), von Ribbentrop; publisher and Churchill confidante Lord Beaverbrook; Prime Ministers Neville Chamberlain and Stanley Baldwin; Edward VIII (who quit the British throne "for the woman I love"); Austrian Chancellor von Schuschnigg; Anthony Eden; Lloyd George.

Most of the special was filmed on location at the Churchill country home, Chartwell. The British cast also stars Virginia McKenna as Churchill's wife Clemmie, Ian Bannen as Hitler and Robert Hardy as von Ribbentrop. Churchill's children are played by Angharad Rees (Sarah); Lesley Dunlop (Mary); and Clive Francis (Frandolph).

All "Hallmark Hall of Fame" specials are under the full sponsorship of Hallmark Cards, Inc. (through Foote, Cone & Belding Inc.). "The Gathering Storm" will preempt "Chico and the Man" and "The Rockford Files" on NBC-TV Nov. 29.

Rockefeller given okay by committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rules Committee voted unanimously today to recommend the approval of Nelson A. Rockefeller to be vice president.

The 9 to 0 vote sends the nomination to the Senate floor. The full senate is expected to vote after Congress returns from its brief Thanksgiving recess.

The Rules Committee decision came after eight weeks of investigation and hearings into the finances and public and private record of the former New York governor.

The decision became unanimous when Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., joined the majority to vote for Rockefeller.

Allen had said earlier he had not made up his mind how he would vote because he disapproved of Rockefeller's "big government, tax and spend philosophy."

Allen said that from Rockefeller's responses at the hearings he believes Rockefeller has moved philosophically toward the right in recent years.

"While I disagree with much of Gov. Rockefeller's philosophy, I realize that it would be impractical for me to expect a nominee with whose views I wholly agree," Allen said. "Therefore, acting in what I consider to be the national interest, I have voted for Gov. Rockefeller's confirmation as vice president."

Rockefeller's nomination also appears certain to win a solid recommendation from the House Judiciary Committee, despite some concern about his vast wealth.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., said at House Judiciary Committee hearings Thursday he sees a pattern in Rockefeller's loans, gifts and political and charitable contributions to use money to "enhance your political power."

Waldie sparked the only show of anger from Rockefeller when he suggested the committee investigate whether Chase Manhattan Bank, headed by Nelson's brother, David Rockefeller, made loans to New York assemblymen when Nelson was governor.

"I resent that question," Rockefeller said. "We don't operate that way. The bank is not used on a political basis."

Waldie, joined by several other members, said the Rockefeller family's wealth and $20 million in political campaign contributions required the committee to investigate the entire family's holdings and not only Nelson's.

Other members said they were concerned whether it would be possible to avoid conflicts of interest by wedding Rockefeller's immense wealth with his power if he became president.

Rockefeller told the panel he would treat as blind trusts those trusts with assets of some $131 million if he is confirmed. Rockefeller and members of his family are beneficiaries of those trusts. The trustees under a blind trust act without telling the trust beneficiary what they're doing.

"These steps should avoid any possibility of a conflict of interest on my part — or the appearance thereof," Rockefeller said.

Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., suggested Rockefeller go even further and put his wife's separate wealth in a blind trust.

Rockefeller promised to talk to her about it. He later reported back to the committee that she did not seem to like the idea, although he indicated that no final decision had been made.

Although the questioning was sometimes tough, little of it was hostile. It appeared at the end of the session that possibly only half a dozen of the 38 committee members might vote against Rockefeller's nomination.

Ford aide to meet with South Korean dissidents

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Ford saw the biggest crowds of his life today and, pressed by critics at home, agreed to have an aide meet spokesmen for dissident factions who oppose the repressive rule of South Korea's President Chung Hee Park.

Press secretary Ron Nessen appeared in the hotel press center shortly before midnight to say that five clergymen representing Protestant and Roman Catholic groups would meet with Richard Smyser, whom he described as a senior member of the National Security Council staff, to hear the clerics' complaints.

Nessen said Smyser would stay over in Korea after Ford's departure to meet with the churchmen. The press secretary promised that whatever the clergymen told Smyser would be passed on to Ford.

The U.S. chief executive flew into Seoul this morning to an elaborate welcoming ceremony and a huge crowd lining the 10-mile motorcade route into the downtown section of the capital.

National police estimated about two million flag-waving, confetti-throwing Koreans lined the way to see the U.S. President. American reporters judged the crowd at a million or more, roughly equivalent to the turnout for the late President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1960.

14-year-old girl held in hit and run

EAST PRAIRIE — A 14-year-old juvenile girl from East Prairie is being held in protective custody by order of the juvenile court after she was picked up Thursday night in Charleston in a stolen car which was involved in a hit and run accident.

The 1974 model car, owned by W. C. Bryant of East Prairie, was stolen sometime between 1:15 and 2:30 p.m. Thursday while it was parked near Winchester Chevrolet Co. in East Prairie.

About 8 p.m. Charleston police were notified of a hit and run accident which had occurred on Center Street and a search began for a white automobile damaged on the right side. A 1971 pick-up truck owned by C. D. Masonry Inc. and a 1972 automobile belonging to William H. Thompson were damaged in the accident.

A short time later the car was located at the Mississippi County Bowling Lane on Highway 105 by police officer Willis Cox. The girl was taken into custody when she came out of the building and got into the car.

It has not been determined if the girl was the only person involved in the series of incidents.

Senate smashes vetoes on aid, secrets bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Overturning President Ford's vetoes, Congress has continued aid to the handicapped and curbed the government's power to keep secrets.

The Senate overrode the two vetoes Thursday, voting 65-27 to reject Ford's objections to the Freedom of Information Act amendments and 90-1 on the vocational rehabilitation measure.

The House overrode the same two vetoes Wednesday by votes of 371-31 and 398-7, respectively. A two-thirds vote is required in each chamber.

Ford now has been overridden on three of his 13 vetoes since he became President Aug. 9. The other was on a railroad retirement bill.

The Senate vote on the information bill enacted it into law.

Ford had his strongest support in the Senate on this one because of objections to the measure from defense, intelligence and law enforcement agencies.

However, Senate sponsors insisted there was an overriding need to end government secrecy which they said had contributed to Watergate and the war in Vietnam.

The legislation would authorize federal judges upon request to examine documents to decide whether they should be made public and fix a 10-day limit for agency decisions on whether to supply information.

The bill also would set a 30-day limit for the government to reply to freedom of information lawsuits; narrow the power of agencies to withhold law enforcement investigatory files, and require the keeping of an index of documents available to the public.

The vocational rehabilitation bill bill would change the way the Department of Health, Education and Welfare administers the 54-year-old program of job training for handicapped persons.

The measure would put the program in a new separate office directly under the HEW secretary, and Ford had objected to this as creating "new, unnecessary bureaucracies."

Cancer interest jumps among Scott Countians

Concern about cancer has been heightened in Scott County, especially among local women, because of the recent mastectomy operations on Mrs. Betty Ford and Mrs. Happy Rockefeller.

People are asking what progress is being made toward controlling the disease. They are interested in the mortality rate locally as compared with that in other areas.

Questions like these are being raised in every part of the country. Nationally, a seemingly contradictory situation is revealed in government reports. On the one hand they show that doctors are curing a larger proportion of cancer patients than ever before.

On the other hand, more people are contracting the disease and the number of deaths is increasing.

The answer is to be found elsewhere, points out the American Cancer Society. It is due to the fact that fewer people are being struck down by the infectious diseases, which were once the big killers, with the result that more of them are living to an advanced age, where they are more susceptible to cancer.

The degree of cancer mortality in Scott County is indicated in the annual reports of the U.S. Public Health Service.

Its last three annuals show an average of 52 cancer deaths per year in the local area. Not included are those involving non-residents.

This amounts to a rate of 158 deaths per 100,000 populatrion. It compares with 160 per 100,000 in the United States andwith 180 in the State of Missouri.

Hall home destroyed

EAST PRAIRIE — The frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Hall, 407 Wilbur St., was gutted by fire about 7:45 a.m. Thursday.

Fire Chief Frank King said the fire of unknown origin began in the kitchen and quickly spread throughout the home destroying all of the family's belongings.

Outreach program to offer mental health services here

Elizabeth Ferrell, 612 Carroll Ave., has been named the Outreach worker for Scott County as part of the new Community Mental Health Project.

The Outreach program offers counseling and mental health services to the general public and is expected to begin in the next two weeks. Mrs. Ferrell said she is still looking for an office.

The program is free to residents of Scott County and was begun under a $300,000 federal hospital grant to Farmington State Hospital, Mrs. Ferrell said. The hospital decided to improve its services by beginning the Outreach program, she added.

Elizabeth Ferrell

The Outreach program is being operated for the first time in Missouri in the six-county area of Scott, Cape Girardeau, Butler, Wayne, Dent and Howell.

The counties were chosen because they are in large trade areas and have larger communities with a number of health care agencies and a high utilization rate of the hospital.

Never before has the government taken someone who lived in the county, trained them, and then sent back to the county, she said. This makes the program unique in the country, she said.

Mrs. Ferrell said that by returning to her home county, the worker is already familiar with the people she is working with, the needs of the area and the people who can help her.

The program includes marriage counseling, child testing, outpatient work for Farmington, and working with people locally so they will not have to go to Farmington.

The program's goals include providing mental health services to area residents, providing a more consistent approach of the followup and after care and providing communities and agencies with a regional

4 Scott County men named commissioners

BENTON — Four Scott County men were appointed Thursday by the County Court to serve as commissioners on the nine-member Southeast Missouri Regional Port Authority Board, which will be responsible for establishing a port on the Mississippi River to serve Cape Girardeau and Scott counties.

The four men named were Raymond Roth of Illmo, appointed to a one-year term; Mike Pfefferkorn of Chaffee, for a two-yar term; Jackson Hunter of rural Sikeston, appointed to a three-year term; and C. B. Taylor of Morley, for a four-year term.

The Cape Girardeau County Court Monday appointed four Cape Girardeau men ot serve on the port authority board.

Named to the board from Cape Girardeau County were C. W. Rushing, Maurice T. Dunklin, Robert J. Earley and A. J. Wier, county prosecuting attorney of Cape Girardeau. All had served on the Cape Girardeau County Port Authority.

At the board's first meeting, the eight members will select a chairman from its members. This will require the appointment off another member to serve the term of the member elect3d chairman.

Formation of the board was made possible when the Missouri Department of Transportation agreed on Nov. 12 to grant a port to Southeast Missouri. Both Cape Girardeau and Scott counties had been working for approval of a Southeast Missouri Regional Port Authority since mid-summer.

One of the first duties of the board will be to authorize feasibility studies on a port location in one of the two counties. The county courts of both counties have tentatively agreed to appropriate equal amounts of funds for the initial planning of the port.

The Scott County Court Thursday also recommended that Sikeston Mayor Frank Ferrell be made a non-voting member on the Port authority board, but such a decision would have to be made by the entire board, Presiding Judge Les Lankford said.

County Clerk Bob Kielhofner reported to the court at its Thursday session that while the county had enough money to meet its obligations, money had been misappropriated and the 1974 budget would have to be revised.

From figures supplied to the court, Kielhofner pointed out that in two of the three budgeted funds the county was in good shape. Budgeted in the general fund category was $590,363.51 for the year, but the county had spent only $481,992.34, leaving over a $100,000 for thelast two months of the year. Over $203,000 had been budgeted for Federal Revenue sharing funds, and only $130,155 has been spent.

The problem centers on the road and bridge funds, and specifically in the road materials category. Inflation is the central problem, Kielhofner said.

When the present budget was being planned in 1973, the price of oil used in laying asphalt roads was 13 cents per gallon, Kielhofner reported. Last summer when the county was repaving several roads, the price had jumped to 30 cents per gallon, he added.

Another example he used was bridge timbers. In the summer when bridges in the county were being repaired, the cost was much higher than when the budget was being planned, Kielhofner said, although the price has dropped some now, "you have to get the materials when you need them," he pointed out.

Kielhofner and the county court were quick to explain, however, that although the county had already spent twice as much in the road materials category as had been planned, the county has enough money. The difficulty is that it is illegal to switch money from one fund to another without state approval.

Kielhofner and the court have already applied to state Auditor John Ashcroft for approval to shift the funds, and they foresee no difficulties.

"I don't think they'll say a word against us," Associate Judge Eldon Ziegnehorn of Sikeston said in discussion of the problem.

Teacher draws 5 years probation on rape charges

CHARLESTON — Michael Williams, a former junior high school teacher in Charleston, received a suspended five-year prison sentence and was placed on five years of probation following his appearance before Circuit Judge Marshall Craig on two counts of statutory rape.

The charges against Williams involved a Charleston girl, under the age of 16, formerly a student of Williams. The alleged rapes occurred on Feb. 14 and March 6. Conditions of Williams' probation included revocation of his Missouri teacher's license, obeying the law, paying court costs and remaining under the supervision of his probation officer.

In a jury trial Wednesday, Jackie Thompson of East Prairie was awarded $3,000 in his suit against the Missuri Property Insurance Placement facility. The suit was filed by Thompson, who was seeking a settlement from the company after his home at 304 West Virginia St. in East Prairie burned on May 7, 1973.

Larry McCutchen and Robert Keith Norman of East Prairie were each given suspended three-year sentences and placed on three-year probation on armed robbery charges. The charges against the two youths were in connection with the Aug. 26 robbery at Brown Smith's Feed Store near East Prairie.

Frankie Tatum of Anniston entered a plea of guilty to a charge of shooting into a dwelling. Punishment was taken under advisement and a request for a pre-sentencing investigation by a probation officer was granted.

Larry Clark of Charleston pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing over $55 and trial was set for Feb. 5. Clark, who is accused of stealing a rifle belonging to James Belk, was released so that he could attend school.

A degree of dissolution of marriage was granted Cletus D. Noggle and Lois H. Noggle.

MORE SAFETY NEEDED WITH TANK CARS

In the last two years, three disastrous explosions of railroad tank cars have occurred, with large loss of life and untold thousands of dollars of damage to the areas far beyond the boundaries of railroad property. In each case, the tank cars were carrying compressed flammable gases. And also, in each case, the accidents involved "humping," or free-rolling tank cars in switching operations.

"Humping" is the practice of having the locomotive push a long line of freigh cars up a "hump," or rise in the railroad bed. At the top of the "hump," the lead car rolls free down a slope and is then switched to desired locations in the railroad yard, there to be coupled with other freight cars heading for the same destination. The savings in freight costs, of course, is considerable, since the locomotive is not required to push each car to the desired spot.

However, in view of these recent accidents, the National Transportation Safety Board has recommended that the Federal Railroad Administration establish a requirement that all freight cars carrying compressed flammable gases be placarded "dangerous," and that the switching operations be handled in the same manner as for those cars carrying high explosives. This would prohibit switching of such freight cars without a locomotive attached.

Clearly, such restrictions will involve more time and trouble in the handling of the cars. But, such restrictions seem wise, since it is clear that the safety of free-rolling cars with compressed gases cannot be guaranteed. In the three accidents, the gases were not the same. Propylene exploded in East St. Louis; isobutane at Decatur, Illinois; and butadiene at Houston, Texas. Hopefully, the Federal Railroad Administration will take quick action, before more lives are lost.

THE POLITICS OF LITTER

What good are anti-littering signs if most people don't think they apply to them? Or ugly looking litter barrels which may, in themselves, be an eyesore? Or $100 fines for littering if they are seldom enforced?

Not very much says University of Wisconsin sociologist Thomas Heberlein who has found that many people simply don't seem to regard their littering acts as littering.

More specific signs, such as "Paper is litter, don't throw paper out of your car," is one of his suggestions for attacking the highway litter problem.

Another is brighter, more attractive, "FUN TO USE" cans that encourage the litterer to re-use them.

As for those stiff fines, they make an officer want pretty definite proof before he arrests someone. But not only is littering not an obvious act, like running a red light, it is not as dangerous to other motorists. Thus litterers rank far down on the policeman's priority list of offenders.

Lower, more realistic fines might increase the likelihood of more arrests and hence better enforcement of the anti-litter laws, thinks Heberlein.

We think he thinks smart.

"Recent history has proven," comments a publication of the Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company, "that regulatory control is frequently in basic conflict with the principles of the competitive business system. One typical example is a proposal to require 'Line of Business' reports for the Federal Trade Commission, detailing sales, costs and profits. The FTC alleges that buyers could use the data to judge the fairness of price-cost margins and profit rates. The question is, who is to determine whether sales promotion expenditures are too high and in relation to what? As one critic put it, 'This proposal is totally at odds with the concept of the American free enterprise system.'"

IS ARMAGEDDON DETERRENT ENOUGH?

Not love of peace but fear of war — nuclear war — has maintained East and West in uneasy coexistence since 1945.

Not the North Atlantic Treaty Organization nor the presence of American troops in Europe but the sure knowledge that any war that began conventionally would end in a mutually destructive nuclear exchange has kept the Soviet Union within the borders it advanced to at the end of World War II.

Yet we talk as if Hiroshima and Nagasaki had never happened, as if there were not hundreds of nuclear-armed intercontinental missiles on both sides, implanted in underground silos or carried on submarines roving the seas, perpetually targeted on the major cities of both sides.

We talk as if the Third World War, should it happen, would be a repetition of the Second — fought with infinitely more sophisticated weapons to be sure, but essentially a war of army against army, of tank advances along invasion routes, of struggles to win supremacy in the air, of mobilization and deployment and logistics and lines of supply.

A staff paper recently published by the Brookings Institution warns that the Soviet Union is geared for a "high- velocity offensive.. aimed at overrunning Western Europe before the West can be mobilized.

We are told that the Cyprus crisis has placed the status of American bases in Greece in jeopardy and that the loss of these bases would create a dangerous weak spot in the southern flank of the defensive ring holding back the Soviets.

Strategists alert us to the peril posed by Russian's burgeoning navy and her development of new fighter aircraft. America's security, and hence that of the Free World, we are told, depends upon maintaining a military establishment second to none, both our own and that of our allies, even those that are dictatorships.

The Brookings Institution paper charges that our forces in Europe are set up for a long war against the Soviet Union, which is only a little more difficult to credit than the paper's own argument that any war would be a lightning, but altogether conventional, affair.

It is logical to assume, of course, that should the Soviet Union be so foolish as to launch a non-nuclear invasion of Western Europe or a thrust through a weakened Mediterranean flank, the West would initially attempt to meet it with a non-nuclear reply.

But is it conceivable that the West would accept defeat in conventional war — would allow victorious Soviet armies to march into Bonn or Paris or Athens, to sink America's Mediterranean fleet, to sieze the oil fields of the Mideast — and still withold nuclear retaliation?

Or, conversely, is it conceivable that the Soviet Union would permit its armies to be thrown back and see those of the West invade Eastern Europe and not bring it awesome nuclear arsenal into use?

Granted that a totally disarmed West, the lack of even token opposing military forces facing the Communist East around the European and Asia perimeters, might tempt Kremlin warhawks to try a military adventure here or there, ala Hitler, in the belief that such a peace-loving opponent could be pushed pretty far far before he reached the extremity of resorting to nuclear war.

A credible Western defense, serving as a "trip wire" for a nuclear Red Alert but strong enough to make any conventional invasion costly and doubtful and with enough reserve power to contain a conventional war until men came to their sanity, thus makes sense as far as it goes.

But the only real guarantee of peace in the world — peace meaning the absence of a shooting war between the United States and the U. S.S.R. — is, as it has been for nearly three decades, the certain knowledge in Moscow and Washington that any war between them would be nuclear.

ZPG COULD DRY UP SOCIAL SECURITY WELL

Today, for each p erson drawing Social Security benefits there are 3.2 contributing workers. In a generation, because of slowing population growth, there will be only 2.2 workers for every beneficiary.

Beginning next year, automatic increases in benefits will be determined by quarterly changes in the Consumer Price Index in an attempt to make Social Security inflation -proof. This will place even greater burdens on the system.

It is becoming increasingly clear that unless basic changes are made in the Social Security system, in coming years a proportionately smaller work force will be called upon to finance greater and greater benefits for more and more retirees.

For this reason, the Advisory Council on Social Security, appointed last April, has launched a major study of the future financial requirements of the system. It is expected to make recommendations to Congress before the end of the year.

One alternative to higher and higher payroll taxes that is gaining support from legislative leaders is the use of general federal revenues for specific purposes, such as cost-of-living increases. The idea is also championed by the nation's chief spokesman for senior citizens, the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP).

In a recent editorial in its news bulletin, the AARP points out that for years, the American public has been led to believe that Social Security is a fiscally sound "contributory" system of "Insurance" for old age and has not subjected the program to the thorough examination it deserves. In order to avoid bankruptcy, says AARP, the time has come for serious reappraisal and corrective action. It is also "high time that a number of myths about Social Security are put to rest once and for all.

— Social Security is NOT an annuity program. Retirement benefits are not necessarily related to contributions made. For example, a family in which both the husband and wife worked and paid Social Security taxes usually receives the same benefits as a family in which the wife did not work.

— Social Security taxes are NOT paid into a trust fund earmarked for an individual's future retirement benefits. Today's Social Security taxes are used to p rovide benefits for today's retirees. The Social Security "trust fund" now contains approximately $68 billion, while the actual benefits owed participants is valued at more than $500 billion.

— Social Security payments are NOT "contributions." They are compulsory taxes.

— Employers do NOT share the burden of Social Security taxes equally with employees. Their share is treated like any other business cost. It can be passed on to the consumer in the form of higher prices or to the worker as a long-range reduction in his potential salary. It is also deductible for income tax purposes as a business expense.

Although Social Security is based upon a moral commitment between generations, there is no legal guarantee that benefits will be paid to future generations, particularly if the "trust fund" does not remain solvent.

"No pious platitudes about the system's 'fiscal integrity' or sermons about how well it has worked in the past (and it has worked well for many years) can change the fact that the demands on the system in 1975, 1985, 1995 and beyond are going to be far greater and far different than they were when Social Security began nearly 40 years ago," says the editorial.

Today's working Americans provide for the nation's present retirees through their Social Security taxes. Older Americans, AARP believes, have an equal obligation to insure that today's workers find some measure of security in their later years.

This year the Commission asked for nine more staffers and a budget of nearly $1.3 million. A Congressional committee pared the request to an even $1 million.

The request was cut back to $250,000 after floor debate in the House revealed some examples of research authorized to date.

One contract included a study of the history, mythology and astrology of gambling. One proposal called for a writer at $100 a day and a researcher at $50 a day, plus "overhead" of $63,000,to study gambling in Las Vegas.

A Bad Voting Record

The American people went to the polls in the November general election, but the turnout was nothing to be proud of and it is obvious that we must do better the next time. The number of votes cast was the lowest since 1946, the first post-war year.

President Gerald Ford has campaigned hard for Republicans in the weeks preceding the election but he put on the hat of the President at the end and urged the people to go the polls, regardless of party affiliation or political inclination. His posture in both efforts was correct. The test of our system of government was in the voting booth. The low turn-out of voters gave the system a black eye, but hopefully not a knockout punch.

Those who did exercise their great right of the ballot made decisions. Many new faces will show in the Congress, the governor's mansions and in state and county offices in January. The voices of the American people who voted will be heard through those elected, and the voter has no grounds for complaining of the officeholder's actions. All, however, can contact officialdom and express approval or disapproval on legislative and administrative decisions. This we must do for surely great issues are before us, expecially on the economic front. An apathetic electorate can still figure in the decision process, but by default is far inferior to active par ticipation. HLH

Where's Detente?
Soviets Heavily Beefing Up Espionage Across the U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.--With a professionally innocent and pious mien which by comparison would make Michelangelo's cherubs look like Harlem dope pushers, Soviet delegates here have charged "Multinational" corporations with "subversive political intervention" in many nations.

It's all in a huge report released by the lavish-living Kurt Waldheim, UN Secretary General, the other day. The Russians and their bloc, in fact, now clamor for "exposing transnational corporations engaging in subversive activities."

If these UN halls weren't so grim these days, this "multinational" report would be the first comic relief since the UN show was put on the road in San Francisco back in 1945.

No less a documented authority than FBI Director Clarence Kelley has reported that the entire Soviet Communist bloc is heavily loaded with identified intelligence agents. No doubt some of these KGB spies participated in the "multinational corporation" study. And wrote a good deal of it.

Furthermore, there now are more than 3,000 industrial, commercial and cultural Soviet visitors in the U.S. ranging all the way from Red generals to machine tool specialists. They are members of missions overburdened with Moscow's intelligence specialists operating from this glass tower to the massive plants of Seattle's Boeing corporation--the kind they denounce in this report.

Kelley, in the past few months, has told it like it is--detente or no detente.

"The Soviet Union continues an intensive scientific, political, military and economic intelligence-gathering effort in the United States," Kelley testified not too long ago.

"Intelligence officers operate under diplomatic cover from Soviet bases in Washington, San Francisco and New York. Intelligence assignments are also carried out by Soviet nationals assigned to the United States as newsmen, participants in exchange programs, commercial representatives, employees of the United Nations and others."

Further, Kelley has revealed, "We have identified a substantial proportion of the 943 (Soviet-bloc official personnel in the U.S. now actually totaling 956--VR) as being intelligence operatives."

The FBI's internal security dossiers on Soviet espionage are jammed with cases, many actually electronically discovered, of interference in our political, military and industrial lives. Neither detente nor President Ford's trip to the hidden city of Vladivostok, have deterred the KGB from espionage, bribery, subversion and even sabotage inside America.

There is the case of the 50-year-old Soviet trading outfit, Amtorg, which has been partially a Soviet cover since 1924. It now is an honored tenant of the World Trade Center here in N.Y.

There is still another significant affair. Little more than a year ago the Soviet Embassy's First Secretary A. Chernyshev was asked to leave Washington. He was persona non grata because he was caught subverting, according to the FBI , James David Wood, a special agent in the U.S. Air Force Office of Special Investigations. When caught he had special classified documents for delivery to Chernyshev. Wood pleaded guilty.

And there is a Soviet general wandering around the U.S. looking at some of our best aircraft designs. There are hundreds of such instances. So much so that Director Kelley has indicated he truly needs scores of additional agents for counterintelligence work because of the heavy increase in Soviet espionage action in the U.S. He believes that there will be more Communist spies should Congress grant Russia the most-favored-nation tariff status.

"There are a tremendous number of visitors," Kelley observed recently, "any one of them could be (a spy) and I feel many are."

There is no limit to their interference in American cultural and commercial life life. Two weeks ago, one high Communist "newsman" here attempted to bully some television people who had not been kind (but certainly not abusive) to a Communist head of state.

Further, Soviet agents have set up liaison with some left-wing labor leaders, some of whom are "sleepers," that is, they rarely surface until it's necessary to defend the Soviet bloc on some key sensitive international issue.

To the insider, this isn't unusual. Just look at what occurred in Germany the other day. The Soviets were exposed when the German Federal Republic arrested a high German Federation of Labor (DGB) official in Bonn and charged him with spying. Not so ong ago Britain and Belgium expelled 150 Soviet espionage agents in one year. There, too, they were disguised as commercial and cultural officials.

Perhaps President Ford could take a minute during his hours with U.S.S.R. party chief Brezhnev and urge him to knock it off.

Further, if the Russians are as sensitive about our multinational corporations as the newest heavy tome discloses, why do they beseech them for technological aid and managerial expertise? And why do they want so much of our capitalist credit?

Or is the multinational report intended for anti-American propaganda to sabotage us abroad?

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
How to Create An Oil 'Shortage

WASHINGTON --In defiance of Congress and without a whimper, the Administration has quietly given the oil industry the means of creating a costly natural gas and oil "shortage" in the next few months.

The "shortage" last winter was used by Big Oils as an excuse to keep motorists in gas lines, homeowners shivering, prices up 50 per cent or more and oil profits even higher.

To prevent a recurrence, Congress passed a law requiring the Federal Energy Administration to conduct a "complete and independeant analysis of actual (domestic) oil and gas reserves..."

But the FEA survey, which is supposed to give a true picture of whether there is a "shortage" has instead been run for the benefit of the oil men, not for the benefit of the public.

Last August, the survey forms were sent out to the oil industry for suggestions, but the views of consumer advocates were not solicited. As a result, the oil companies were successful in modifying the forms pretty much to their whim.

Indeed, the FEA quietly issued a "Justification Statement," admitting that the original reporting forms had been "modified to incorporate virtually all the suggestions" from the industry.

One industry suggestion adopted by the FEA has now made the survey virtually meaningless. It would allow the oil companies to report only oil that is easy to pump out, and to ignore oil that is harder to recover.

Thus, if a well produces 500 barrels that could be recovered at $5 a barrel, but contains another 200 barrels that would be difficult to recover, the oil company need only report the first 500.

What this means to the unwitting consumer, of course, is that the 200 can be withheld from the market while Bil Oil cries "Shortage!" again, the 200 can be drawn from the ground and sold at the new higher prices. The same principle applies for natural gas, which is primarily controlled by the oil industry.

In addition, the big oil companies send in their survey forms to the American Petroleum Institute, the industry's powerful Washington lobby. There, they can be checked before the FEA is allowed to see them.

The FEA's survey director , Dr. Daniel Rathbun, pooh-poohs the suggestion that routing the forms through the petroleum lobby is a slap in the public's face. At first, he also insisted that reporting is impossible to avoid.

But under questioning by my associate Jack Cloherty, Rathbun admitted that the major oil companies had data and could report how much oil remained in the ground if ordered to do so. It was only small companies that would have trouble, he conceded.

Despite the gigantic loophole in his survey, Rathbun insisted the FEA was working on other means to find out how much oil is really in America. DENT' DILEMMA: Plain-spoken Harry Dent, the general counsel of the Republican National Committee, has been given the bitter choice of pleading guilty to a minor charge or of facing a felony indictment and a costly, painful trial.

Dent, architect of President's Nixon's successful "Southern Strategy," was given the ultimatum a few days ago by Special Prosecutor Charles Ruff during secret talks in Washington. According to friends, Dent is now gloomily mulling over the "offer" in his native South Carolina.

Under Ruff's proposal, Dent would plead guilty to the misdeameanor of "aiding and abetting" the illegal "Operation Townhouse" which raised $3 million for Republican candidates in 1970.

Although lodged in the basement of a private townhouse, the funding operation was set up by White House aide H.R. Haldeman and contributions were personally earmarked for candidates by ex-President Nixon. Nixon, of course, has been pardoned. But his former lawyer, Herb Kalmbach, is serving a 6-to-18 months sentence growing out of the "Townhouse." A second ex-Nixon aide, Jack Gleason, has pleaded guilty to running "Operation" and faces a possible year in jail.

Dent's involvement is the most ironic of all. He learned South" politics at the knee of his old boss, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. But Dent, like his mentor, is personally regarded as honest. even by his enemies.

His candor led him privately to denounce the White House "dirty tricks" operators and to quit the Nixon team in favor of his current job. Prosecutors concede his role at the "Townhouse" was minimal.

Footnote: "Operation Townhouse" was illegal because it was not registered as a political committee. Oddly, the senators and representatives who got money from the "Townhouse" and its Democratic counterparts have all been spared prosecution.

Youths bound over for marijuana possession

CHARLESTON--- Three Charleston youths, Charles D. Morgan, Sammy D. Morgan and Richard E. Pickett, were bound over to Circuit Court following a preliminary hearing Thursday before Magistrate Judge T.J. Brown Jr. on an amended charge of possession of capsules containing barbituates. The original charge was possession of a controlled substance.

Testifying for the state during the hearing were Charleston police officers Mike Baughman and Walter Westerhold. Mrs. Fracnis Thurmond was called as a defense witness.

The three were arrested by Baughman and Westerhold on Oct. 26 in Charleston after their car was stopped for having defective equipment. According to the officers, the youths were nervous and acting suspiciously which prompted officers to ask for permission to search the car. Marijuana cigarettes, half- smoked, were found in a rear ashtray and in an ashtray placed under the front seat.

A further search of the car after it was taken to the police station turned up a bottle containing 17 blue pills and two white capsules. The charges against the three are in connection with the white capsules only.

Mrs. Thurmond, grandmother of Pickett, testified that the blue pills were a prescription drug for her and that the white capsules had been given to her by her daughter. She further testified that she had lost the medicine, possibly in the car since she had ridden in the automobile.

The youths, who are free on $500 bond each, are scheduled to appear Dec. 10 in Circuit Court.

Roger Cain of Charleston was also bound over to Circuit Court for a Dec. 10 appearance following his preliminary hearing on a felony charge of stealing. He is accused of stealing a .16 gauge shotgun belonging to Larry Harland of Charleston on or about Oct. 1. Cain is free on $1,000 bond.

Benny Corbitt Jr. of Charleston waived a preliminary hearing on a felony charge of issuing a fraudulent check and was bound over to Circuit Court. He is in custody in lieu of bond.

A preliminary hearing for Gary Dale Dowdy of East Prairie, charged with a felony of molesting a minor with immoral intent, was set for Dec. 12 and bond was set at $1,000.

A charge of contributing to the deliquency of a minor brought a $50 fine, plus costs, and a ten- day jail sentence to Jimmie Darrell Hicks. The jail sentence will be suspended upon payment of the fine and costs and Hicks was given to Nov. 27 to pay the charges. Daniel P. Wren was sentenced to ten days in the county jail on the same charge.

An attorney was appointed to represent Hattie Lee Garrison of rural East Prairie on a charge of exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon. She remains in custody under $1,000 bond. She is accused of exhibiting a .22 caliber rifle in the presence of Peggy Brown on Nov. 16.

Charges of striking police officers in performance of their duties against Chester Edward Gary, Eddie Lee Butler and Walter Burnett of Charleston were continued to Nov. 27 to allow them time to employ attorneys. Bond was set at $2,500 each.

Judge Brown overruled a motion to suppress evidence entered by the attorney for Dan Michael Baumann and Steven Michael Janke, who face charges of possession and being under the control of marijuana. The charge was then continued to Dec. 5.

Trial for Roger Cain, David Morgan and Dennis Morgan, charged with disturbing the peace, was taken off Thursday's docket and reset for Jan. 23, 1975. The three remain free on $500 bonds each.

Attorneys were appointed to represent Ray Presson Woods, David Wayne Hannah and Jerry David Grimes, who are each charged with a felony of stealing. Bonds were set at $1,000 each. They are accused of stealing a three- wheel bicycle on Nov. 16 belonging to Bill Byrum.

Preliminary hearing for Harold Oliver Johnson of Charleston, charged with felonious assault with a knife on Luceoin T. Menzies, was set for Jan. 16. Johnson is free on $1,500 bond.

A driving while intoxicated charge against Ray P. Woods of Anniston brought a $150 fine, plus costs, and a 30- day jail sentence, which will be suspended upon payment of fine. Robert King of Charleston, charged with driving while intoxicated, was fined $170 and given a 30- day jail sentence, which will be suspended upon payment of fine. King was given until Dec. 5 to pay. The same charge brought a $174.50 fine to Tommy Ray Bewley of East Prairie.

A warrant was issued for C.W. Mixon of Charleston after he failed to appear on charges of driving while intoxicated and having no operator's license.

Appearing on traffic violations were: Robert Glenn Tyree of Wyatt, no operator's license, $26; Hassie Belle Sweet of Bertrand, speeding, $27; and Michael Herbert Presson of Charleston, failure to signal while turning and out of state operator's license while a Missouri resident, $41.

Speeding charges continued to Nov. 27 included: Carol Ann Masson of St. Louis, Billy Joe Wilkerson of Bertrand, Jo Ann Dismuke of Bertrand, John Billy Angel of Cape Girardeau, Warren Leroy Galemore of East Prairie, James Carol Hall of New Madrid, Stanford Nevels of Wyatt, James David Peters of Bertrand, Arbery Lee Angew of East Prairie; and David Eugene Hurley of Bertrand.

Other cases continued to Nov. 27 included: Jimmy Quinn of Charleston, operating a motor vehicle without an operator's license; Barton Woodrow Tinnon of East Prairie, driving while operator's license is revoked; Rebecca McRill Parr of Reno, Nev., improper exhaust; and Bran Leroy Buttry of Charleston, underage possession of liquor.

Fines levied earlier this week in Magistrate Court were: Kenneth Lee Whitehead, speeding, $29; Steven Odean Woodard, no operator's license, $31; Gary Clark, speeding, $28; Larry Lee Smith, speeding, $28; Bobby Dale Tatum, driving while intoxicated, $173.50; Connie David Keene, speeding, $43; Carolyn Louise Hayden, speeding, $28; Victor Leslie Bagwell, improper registration, $41; Thomas Hall Pate, speeding and illegal use of dealer license plates, $31; and Robert F. Abernathy, speeding, $30; Nancy Ann Bone, speeding, $32; and Marvin Ruff, speeding, $34.

Ann Landers

Doctor warns of small children allowed to play in street

Dear Ann Landers: After a long, hard day at the hospital (I am chief of surgery), I picked up the paper and turned to your column. I read the letter from the woman whose brother committed suicide after he had run over a child who playing in the street.

This morning I had to tell a mother that her beautiful, blue-eyed old son died on the table. He, too, was riding a tricycle in the street. His little body was so entangled in the trike that the boy and the trike were laid together on the stretcher.

I can't count the times I've been called to the emergency room to face sobbing whose child was playing in the street. May I pose a question to every parent who is reading this letter: "Do you want your child to live to adulthood?" Not one will say, "No." But I warn you, the next time you allow your child to play in the street or take his trike out to ride it wherever he pleases, it might be the last time you will see him alive. Sign me--Tired M.D.

Dear M.D.: Neither of us will ever know how many little lives you saved today. I hope it will help to make up for the ones you've lost on the table.

Dear Ann Landers: You have always taken the position that a young woman need not give her fiance "the names and numbers of all the players." Your advice is, "Keep your mouth shut about past indiscretions. It's nobody's business."

Does this go for an out-of-wedlock child? When I was 15 I had a son and put him up for adoption. I want to do what's right. Please advise me.--Settling Down

Dear S.D.: A live child can hardly be considered an "Indiscretion." Your fiance should be told--and the sooner the better.

Dear Ann Landers: Today a young girl telephoned and said she wanted to meet my husband and that he had refused to see her. She is his out-of-wedlock daughter. I learned about this girl a few years ago but not from my husband. The child's mother came to see me. My husband is aware of that little visit because I told him at the time.

Now he is terribly upset that the girl would have the nerve to telephone me and try to inflict herself on our family. I need your counsel on how to deal with the problem.

Should I tell our children? They are 12, 14, 16 and 18. I'm afraid if I don't tell them they will hear it from someone else. All this happened 21 years ago, before I even knew my husband.

The girl left me her phone number but he refused to take it. He is a truck driver and frequently passes through the town where this girl and her mother live. He has never called them so I figure he really has no interest.

My husband is a great guy and I love him dearly. What should be done?--Concerned

Dear C: Your children should be told about their half-sister, but this is your husband's responsibility, not yours. I hope he will accept it like a man.

Since he has made it clear that he wants nothing to do with the girl, don't pressure him to see her. And don't invite her over to meet your children, or you'll have real trouble. It is apparent that your husband wants to forget this part of his past and you should respect his wishes. (P.S. I get the impression that he had never given the girl's mother any financial help and this is wrong, unless, of course, she turned it down.)

Going to a wedding? Giving one? Or standing up in one? Even if you're already married Ann Lander's completely new "The Bride's Guide" will answer questions about today's weddings. Costumery can stir interest in sewing

By JACKIE SCHOENEMAN

Welcome to the wonderful craft of crepe paper costumery. It is for mothers, teachers and group leaders who want to take the time to teach children to dress up a dull day.

"Costumes from Crepe Paper," (Little Craft Book Series, Sterling) by Marie-Blanche Pointillart gives clear instructions and diagrams on how to glue together 10 children's costumes such as a clown, a Russian girl, a Middle Ages princess, a Bolivian girl and a buttercup for true flower children.

Authoress Pointillart points out that crepe paper is an ideal material with which to work because it comes in a myriad of colors, is inexpensive, stretchable, has body and does not ravel. The paper also is easy to replace or patch if it receives wear and tear and is safe if you buy a brand that is flameproof.

Interestingly enough, crepe paper also has a grain which runs in the same direction as the ridges of the paper. Although most of the "seams" are glued together, some are sewn with coarse knitting yarn or lightweight string in long stitches. With these few explanatory notes, and not even a "good luck," you are off.

If you have never sewn before, the instructions may be difficult to follow. They read (and the diagrams look) like those from a regular fabric pattern. In fact, the authoress admits the craft is one of dressmaking and uses customary sewing terms like sepals, raffia-colored paper and X-acto knife that a beginning seamstress may never have heard of.

Because the book is geared for those with sewing experience, Ms. Pointillart does not mention how to make alterations, of if crepe paper should be treated differently than fabric when sewn. Also bothersome is having to flip to the middle of the book to refer to the color photograph of the costume you are making. The costume photo placed directly with its instructions would, at the very least, be an incentive to complete the finished product.

In addition, she concludes the costumes are easy enough for children to make without assistance -- this is questionable. It would be safe to say, however, that making these crepe paper costumes with your child is a great way to stir his or her interest in sewing. This may be the book's greatest benefit.

At Wits End

By Erma Bombeck

The mail reveals that there many women on the domestic scene who would like to write a humor column. The foremost problem confronting most of them is they have not laughed in ten years.

If there is one key word to writing humor, it is perspective. Something may not seem funny at the time it happens. However, given a few years it takes on a whole new dimension.

One of the foremost examples that comes to my mind is my son's bedroom. Who would have thought this could be a topic for humor?

When I visited his room in 1969, my son was six years old. I looked at the troll doll with the blind cord looped around its neck, tripped over a cereal bowl half-filled with leather pudding, rousted the dog who was sleeping under a dish towel out of the top bunk, and went into shock when I discovered a coonskin hat made out of the tails on the only furpiece I was to ever own.

I didn't laugh that year. In fact, when my husband found me I was in a fetal position in the linen closet rocking gently back and forth singing Faith of Our Fathers to a coonskin hat.

In 1972, I again returned to his room as there were complaints from the family that the room smelled like a tire factory.

Things had changed. The room had deteriorated to the point where I couldn't tell where the clutter left off and the decomposition began. One thing was certain. There was nothing in that room that would ever face extinction. Never before nor since have I seen living organisms being produced at such an astronomical rate. Bacteria was multiplying and dividing before my eyes. The goldfish were at Population 2000, the gerbils were living in Orgyville under the bed, and two tennis shoes were reproducing in the corner.

I tried smiling, but I wasn't ready to laugh yet, especially when a mechanical monster chased me all over the room and held me at bay until his batteries burnt out.

I almost laughed in 1973, the year the underwear which was draped over the desk lamp caught fire, (but luckily there was a bucket of old hub caps from the dump that were soaking by the bed and the fire was extinguished.) but my husband slapped me across the face, postponing my hysteria.

Just to show you how time has a way of putting things in perspective, I went into his room yesterday. The stereo made my eyes lock, there were two years of TV Guides under his pillow, the only thing on a hanger was a canteen, his water bed smelled like a condemned gym and thanks to his open windows, we have been air- conditioning the state in the summer and heating it in the winter.

I laughed...all the way to my encounter group.

Flaherty Collection Sparkles

CHEZ JOEY. By Joe Flaherty. Coward, McCann & Geoghegan. 229 Pages. $7.95.

Many of the pieces that make up this sparkling collection first appeared in "The Village Voice," so it follows that much of what Joe Flaherty has to say in them celebrates New York City — even when he is knocking it.

Which is not to say that only New Yorkers will find Flaherty's writing of interest. Far from it. For while his scenes of action may be set in Greenwich Village, the Bronx or an outlying race track, the things Flaherty has to say about what is going on apply equally well to similar places in other parts of the country.

In one piece, for example, Flaherty starts out with the return of the horses to New York's tracks, but it is not long before he is discussing the various forms of gambling, noting that "poker playing is a lot of beery camaraderie" and dice playing is "for dolts." Or, while specifically describing the action at a professional wrestling match, he easily moves on to the thought that "the knock against wrestling is that no one really gets hurt.

School district upgrades special education program

NEW MADRID — Ray Melton, superintendent of schools in the New Madrid County R-1 Enlarged School District, discussed the district operations Monday night at the Business and Professional Women's Club meeting.

The 150-square mile district was created in 1968 with the merger of the Portageville, Parma, New Madrid, Lilbourn, Matthews and Higgerson districts, Melton said. He also reported the following facts.

Assessed valuation of the district for tax purposes is $42 million and the 1974-75 budget is $6.3 million.

Thirty-eight per cent of the district's total funds comes from local and county taxes, 43 per cent from state funds, and 19 per cent, or approximately one-fifth of the funds is provided by federal grants.

The district receives one-half million dollars in federal funds, the third largest allocation in the state, for Title I programs. This includes $200,000 for the Follow Through Program in the Portageville unit and $300,000 for the school lunch program.

There are 580 persons employed by the district that accounts for annual payroll of $350,000.

Student enrollment is nearly 5,000 with an average cost per pupil of $1,013.

Hopefully, Melton said, the district will receive AA classification this year by the State Department of Education and will then continue to move in the direction of reaching AAA standards.

Some of the areas that require upgrading to meet AAA classification, Melton noted, adding that they were reachable, include foreign languages, vocational instruction at junior high level, 25 per cent of the faculty, exclusive of administrative personnel, must have a master's degree, and expansion of the elementary phyusical education program and additional counselors.

The district's special education program has been broadened considerably, Melton said. There are 34 teachers and 34 teacher aides employed in the special education field covering learning disabilities, speech correction and partially sighted students.

In a business session conducted by President Jeannette Haubold, members voted to sponsor a Girl Scout Cadette troop, approved membership for Ellen McCann, and agreed to prepare Christmas stockings for the annual Christmas party for foster children.

Mrs. Ellouis Melton gave a committee report on the New Madrid high school student-of-the-month project that was initiated in October by the club to promote good citizenship.

Each month a boy or girl who best meets the criteria set by the B&PW is chosen from the student body by an anonymous panel of teachers. At the end of the school year an Outstanding Student-of-the-Year will be selected from the eight recognized as Student-of-the-Month. A savings bond will be awarded to the Student-of-the-Year.

The club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 16 in the home of Mrs. Melton for a Christmas party. Members are requested to bring a $3 gift for exchange and a favorite snack dish of cookies, candy or dips.

Looking over the bowling sheets that are turned over to me each week, I didn't see anything spectacular this week. It is going to be hard to beat Jo Arnold's feat of last week! I have big plans for bowling a 200 game this year which isn't much to my professional colleagues but believe you me when or should I say if it happens you can bet it will receive special notice. So much for chit-chat and on to the scores:

TUESDAY MORNING
HOUSEWIVES 11-5-74

Everyone must of had a hard weekend as there were no 200 games or 500 series which is very unusual! The Ten Pins had the high game and high team series with a 1044 and a 3013. Team scores were: Sparettes 3 - Our Gang 1, Town and Country 3- Hecklers 1, Ten Pins 4- Pin Pals 0, Alley Cats 0- Road Runners 4, Strikers 2 - Gutter Dusters 2, Goof Balls 3- Rollettes 1, Imperial Belles 3- Fantastic 5-1. Splits picked up: Sheryl Dowdy 5-7, Judy Hines 5-10, Dorothy Clinton 2-7, Pat Carlstrom 5-6-10, Joyce Shaw 5-10, Joanie Stoner 7-8-5, Louise Conn 5-7, Opal Briggs 5-6 Martha Tucker 5-7, and Sue Gordon 2-7, and 5-7.

DELTA IMPERIALETTES
11-5-74

Well, it seems it didn't get much better Tuesday night as there were no 200 games but we did have some 500 series. Wanda Baugher was high with a big 526, Jean Lee and Jane Manley both had a 510 series. The secretary forgot to give me the high team game and series so I don't know who was high for the night. Team scores were as follows: Hart's 4 - Eagles 0, Quandrant Homes 4 - Dye's Seed 0, Francis Beauty Shop 2- Wallmart 2, Michelob 3- Imperial Restaurant 1, People's Bank 3 - Dock's Construction 1, and Barkett's 4 - Sikeston Motor Co. 0. Splits picked up: Jenny Cape 5-10, Hazel Green 5-6, Kathy Etienne 5-7, Joan Kellebrew 2-7, Anita Ziegler 3-10, and Mary Meyer 5-7-10.

America

America was named for Amerigo Vespucci (1454-1512), an Italian reputed to have made four voyages to the New World (1497-1503). German geographer Martin Waldseemuller first used the term "America" designating the New World in honor of the explorer, on a map in his book published in 1507.

Kitchen safety hints

If your clothes ever catch fire, don't run! Drop immediately to the floor or ground and roll to smother the flames. Teach children how to do this.

But, while you should know how to protect yourself in the event of a fire, there are things you can do to prevent the emergency from happening.

Most home fires start in the kitchen and relate to the kitchen stove. In a fact sheet, called "Kitchen Stove Safety", the Consumer Product Safety Commission points out some of the dangers and gives purchase, use and maintenance tips to prevent accidents. Single copies of the fact sheet are available free from Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

When you're buying a stove:

— Choose one with knobs difficult for children to turn on.

—Check for controls you can reach without having to stretch over burners.

—If you buy an electric stove, be sure it has signal lights to warn when burners are on. Be sure a gas stove has pilot lights for the burners and the oven.

When you are using the stove:

—Wear tight-fitting clothes. Loose sleeves are the cause of most clothing fires which start at the stove.

—Use potholders, not towels, to move pots. Towels could brush across k burner and catch fire.

—Don't hang curtains or dishtowels close to the stove.

—If the oven has no pilot light, don't turn on the gas until you have lighted a match. Otherwise gas could accumulate and cause an explosion.

—Never use flammable liquids near a gas stove. The pilot light can easily ignite the vapors causing an explosion.

Maui Business Can't Keep Up With Demand

By ROBERT MURPHY
Associated Press Writer

KAHULUI, Hawaii (AP) — The Kobayashi family on the island of Maui has a business problem at their potato chip factory that would be the dream of every potato chip company in the capitalistic world.

They produce a potato chip which is more expensive than other chips on the Hawaiian market, but which is so popular the family finds it hard to keep up with the demand.

The Kobayashis — father Yoshio, 71, and sons Dewey, 45, and Joe, 35 — run the family-owned Maui Potato Chip Co., whose "kitchen-cooked" chips are snapped up whenever they appear anywhere in Hawaii.

The family began their operation on this island in 1957 after being forced out of the grocery business by the large chain stores. They bought a small one-pot cooking operation and started experimenting with ways to make potato chips. After more than 15 years of experimenting, the Kobayashis have perfected a chip unlike any mass produced potato chip from the mainland — a chip that everyone in Hawaii wants, but only a few can get.

"We produce potato chips primarily for the people on Maui," said son Dewey. "Whenever we get requests from outside of this island, we try to fill the orders, but most of the time we can't.

And this is the family's main problem.

"It's a shame that we can't supply everyone's orders, but we're a small operation . . . and that's the key to our good potato chip," he said. "You can't produce our type chip on a large scale, believe me."

The Kobayashi's Maui chip, first of all, is thicker than the conventional chip from the mainland and it's brownish in color, almost burnt looking. It's usually larger and slightly brittle too.

"The darker color of our chips is caused from the sugar content in the potatoes we use," said Kobayashi. "The larger companies use the kind of potatoes that make a white-looking chip . . . which is okay if you're only interested in how a chip looks and not how it tastes."

Only nine employes and the three Kobayashis make up the entire work force at the small chip-making factory. The potato peeling and cutting is done by machinery, but the rest is done by hand, including the cooking, salting and packing.

Yoshio Kobayashi, the father, handles all the cooking — which is done every week day from 11 p.m. to 1 p.m. the next day. Dewey and his brother Joe handle the mass packing and shipping chores.

The plant consumes about 30 sacks of potatoes, all imported from California and Washington, per day.

The fuel crisis has also had its effect on the operation. Diesel fuel is used to heat the large cooking vats, and since the company is allocated fuel by its 1972 usage level, "company growth" is being held back.

Kobayashi, even though he makes what he calls "the best chip in the world," is not his own biggest fan. He says he prefers baked potatoes to his chips.

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Assured of a winning season in his first-year as a head coach at the collegiate level, Southeast Missouri State University's Jim Lohr takes his football team to Kirksville Saturday for the 1:30 p.m. season finale against Northeast Missouri State University.

Lohr's Indians ran their record to 6-4 last Saturday, beating Lincoln University 19-3. A win over Northeast Missouri State would up the Tribe's MIAA mark to 4-2 and assure the Indians of at least a third-place tie in the conference standings.

Northeast Missouri State's record is just the opposite of Southeast Missouri State's. The Bulldogs are 2-3 in MIAA play and 4-6 overall.

Lohr has a healthy respect for the Bulldogs, despite their below .500 showing. He noted that the Bulldogs -- a young team -- lost three games in a row in the middle of the season when they had "a bunch of injuries," and added, "Their young kids are real good football players, and when they've been healthy, they've been tough."

Both the Bulldogs and the Indians operate from a veer offense, and both strive for a balanced passing and rushing attack.

Northeast Missouri State's top rusher is freshman Steve Powell, a 6-0, 180-pound running back from Kirkwood. He has carried 140 times for 799 yards. Hampered since Nov. 9 by a sprained ankle, Powell played in the Bulldogs' 31-7 loss last week to Southwest Missouri State University of Springfield, but rushed just nine times for 35 yards.

Quarterbacking Coach Randy Lukehart's Bulldogs is junior Tom Williamson, a 6-0, 180-pounder from Unionville. He has completed 77 of 189 pass attempts for 978 yards.

Powell's counterparts on the Southeast Missouri State team are running backs Bobby Everage, a 5-8, 175-pound junior from Alton, Ill., and Anthony Wallace, a 5-11, 180-pound junior from West Palm Beach, Fla. Everage has gained 641 yards in 103 attempts, and Wallace has totaled 506 yards in 116 tries.

The Indians' signal caller is Rick Wieser, a 6-1, 185-pound junior from Topeka, Kan., who has 73 of 168 aerials for 1,050 yards.

To win Saturday, Lohr feels his team must put together two good halves two good halves of of football -- something the Tribe has not really done since Oct. 19.

The Indians have scored 83 first-half points in their last four games. They have been outscored 39-17 during the second halves of those same games.

Fumbles at crucial times have hurt the Indians throughout the fall, and the Southeast Missouri State coach indicated this remains a concern as the team enters its final game. Through 10 contests the Tribe has lost an average of 2.5 fumbles per game.

Lohr declared this is not a natural consequence of the high-risk veer offense which his team employs. Rather, he said, it is the result of various types of mistakes which the players and coaches have been unable to correct.

One Southeast Missouri State starter, cornerback and kickoff return specialist, Larry Hearon, definitely will not play Saturday. The 5-11, 185-pound junior from Tutwiler, Miss., underwent surgery early this week for an appendicitis. His replacement is likely to be freshman Dan Wieser, a 6-0, 170-pounder from Topeka, Kan.

Doubtful are senior Carl Gross, a 6-4, 235-pound tight end from Cape Girardeau who sustained a scratched eyeball against Lincoln, and sophomore Bruce Thomas, a 6-2, 235-pound defensive lineman from Hopkinsville, Ky., who has a dislocated finger.

If Gross is unable to go, his substitute will be freshman Randy Roddy, a 6-0, 195-pounder from Ballwin. Thomas' replacement would probably be senior Bob Johnson, a 6-2, 228-pounder from Hillsboro, Ill.

The series between the Indians and the Bulldogs began in 1924. Southeast Missouri State won last year's game, 14-13, but Northeast Missouri State leads the series 29-14-1.

Panthers show deadly offense

WARDELL-- The Lilbourn Panthers walloped the Risco Tigers 90- 71 in the winners bracket and the East Prairie Eagles swept past the New Madrid Indians 69- 61 in the losers bracket of the North Pemiscot Invitational tournament here Thursday night.

The East Prairie Eagles used a steady offensive attack and a press defense to get past the Indians. The Eagles took an 18-12 first period lead on the steady shooting of Williford, who ended the game with 21. New Madrid battled back in the second period with the big gun, Steve Glenn supplying the offense and trailed by three, 31- 28 at the half. Glenn kept pouring in the points in the third period but the New Madrid defense couldn't contain Williford and Bradley and the Eagles increased their lead, outscoring the Indians 16-12 in the quarter.

New Madrid tried in vain to battle back in the last period but the surprising Eagles kept the pressure on with fine shooting. Glenn ended the game with 32 points for the Indians.

In the winners bracket, the Lilbourn Panthers looked like state champions with their quickness and shooting as they jumped to a quick lead in the opening minutes of the first quarter, using a full court press to steal the ball before the slower Tigers could get a shot at the basket. Lilbourn owned a 27- 10 lead at the clost of the first quarter and for allintents and purposes the game was over.

Coach Stan Whitson played Andy Smelser with a broken finger which cut down the all-staters effectiveness but the Panthers speed and quickness was more than the Tigers could cope with. Lilbourn began to use some reserves in the second quarter and Risco cut the lead a little but coach Bob Phelps has a fine team and the subs were able to keep the lead intact.

Risco took advantage of the substitutes in the third period and outscored the Panthers 24-23 and beat the Panthers in the fourth period 23- 20.

All- stater Frankie Robinson canned 20 points and was followed by Dan Treadwell and Ernest McFerron with 19 and 18 respectively. Newcomer to the Panthers, Archie Boyd dumped in 15 points and took care of the boards.

Friday night Gideon plays Pemiscot County in the loser bracket and North Pemiscot takes on Delta C- 7 in the winners bracket at 8:00.

WFL troubles mount

The World Football League, hoping to attract to its post-season games some of those paying fans who stayed away in droves during the regular season, kicked off its playoffs Thursday night with Florida and the Hawaiians posting victories.

The Blazers dumped the Philadelphia Bell 18-3 and the Hawaiians topped the Southern California Sun 32-14. But if the WFL is looking to the playoffs to patch up some of the financial leaks in its rapidly sinking ship, it better look again.

Sun officials announced a paid crowd of only 11,430 in a light rain at Anaheim, the team's lowest turnout of the year, while just 9,712 fans showed up in Orlando for the Blazers' game.

Meanwhile, the WFL's financial picture, none too bright to start with, got still bleaker Thursday as the Internal Revenue Service continued to lean all over the league. The IRS filed a $105,551 lien against the Jacksonville Sharks, claiming the club owes at least that much in back taxes.

The IRS earlier had filed liens against Birmingham and Portland, and a spokesman said if the WFL teams do not make good on the money, the IRS could foreclose on the franchises.

The IRS claims Birmingham owes 237,000 in back taxes and has reportedly filed a claim for an additional $160,000 against owner Bill Putnam. The city, county, state and a local bank also have lodged claims against the Americans.

The IRS is after Portland to the tune of $168,000.

Players, many of whom haven't been paid in weeks, were supposed to divide 70 per cent of Thursday night's gate receipts among them. Florida and Philadelphia players were expected to get about $743 each while Hawaiian and Southern Cal players were supposed to get $662 apiece.

Both Memphis and Birmingham drew first-round byes. Memphis hosts Florida next Friday while Birmingham entertains Hawaii next Wednesday. The winners will meet in the World Bowl Thurs., Dec. 5, at a site to be determined later.

Florida got all the points it needed to win the first time Philadelphia got the ball. Bell running back Claude Watts fumbled on his own 32-yard line, Blazer safety Rickie Harris scooped the ball up and raced 32 yards for a touchdown.

Quarterback Bob Davis connected with Greg Latta on a 45-yard pass play for the other Blazer TD and Dave Strock added a 24-yard field goal. Jerry Warren accounted for the Philadelphia offense with a 37-yard field goal.

Southern California got off to a rocky start even before the kickoff when running back Kermit Johnson, the team's leading rusher, and guard Booker Brown failed to show up for the game. No reason was given for the absence of the two rookies, but Coach Tom Fears said both were suspended.

The Hawaiians raced to a 17-0 lead and were never headed. Al Davis ran for a pair of short-yardage touchdowns and Randy Johnson tossed two scoring passes for the winners.

Tony Adams combined with Keith Denson on a 46-yard pass play for the Sun's only touchdown.

Big weekend in NFL

Monday night was very good to the Oakland Raiders. The Los Angeles Rams hope it'll be good to them, too. But both teams will have to be good on Sunday.

Last Sunday, the Raiders defeated San Diego 17-10 to clinch at least a tie for the American Conference's West Division title, then locked it up outright when the runner-up Denver Broncos lost to visiting Kansas City on Monday night.

Now it's the Rams' chance. They can clinch a tie for the National Conference West title with a victory over the Minnesota Vikings. And if they get past that first big hurdle, they can lock it up if the runner-up New Orleans Saints lose to visiting Pittsburgh on Monday night.

In Sunday's other National Football League games, it's St. Louis at the New York Giants, Philadelphia at Washington, Dallas at Houston, Miami at the New York Jets, Buffalo at Cleveland, New England at Baltimore, Cincinnati at Kansas City, San Diego at Green Bay, Chicago at Detroit, Denver at Oakland and Atlanta at San Francisco.

The Rams won't be the only team on the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum turf with visions of titles dancing in their heads. The Vikings, too, can lock up a crown of their own, in the NFC's Central Division, and they can do it Sunday — but they need a lot more help. It'll take a Minnesota victory and losses by the Packers and Lions to sew it up.

The Rams and Vikes own identical 8-3 records — just as they owned identical 6-0 records when they met in 1973. "It's going to be interesting, just like last year," says Minnesota Coach Brant.

Grant would no doubt like the outcome to be the same as a year ago. The Vikings stayed unbeaten, edging Los Angeles 10-9, and ran their perfect string to nine in a row before losing to Atlanta.

"We haven't played against James Harris before," Grant said of the Rams' quarterback. "But from what we've seen, he certainly has a strong arm."

The Vikes have one, too, of course, in Fran Tarkenton, the No. 5 passer in the NFC just behind Harris.

'M Night' event slated at Morley

MORLEY — "Church: the Sunday Night Place for Training ... Family Style" is the theme for the Charleston Baptist Association "M Night" program at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Morley Baptist Church.

A filmstrip with the theme title will be shown, and the Murray Lane Baptist Church choir will present "Reaching People", an evangelistic cantata. Eileen Sewald will direct the choir, and Cathy Dawkins and Billie Fair will be accompanists.

Jack L. Bishop, superintendent of missions for the association, said the program is one of more than a thousand "M Night" meetings being conducted by Baptist associations Monday night. The M Night event began in 1972 and has become the largest meeting of churches affiliated with the Southern Baptist Convention.

Charleston Baptist Association is composed of 39 churches.

V. W. Entrekin of Sikeston, director of church training for the association, will preside.

Old-fashioned day planned at Calvary

Sunday has been designated Old-Fashioned Sunday at Calvary Assembly Church, located at the corner of Scott and Trotter streets, according to the Rev. T. A. McDonough, pastor.

The auditorium will be decorated with variety of antique articles, and everyone is encouraged to dress old-fashioned. A prize will be awarded the one judged to be dressed in the most original style.

Although old-fashionied dress is encouraged, Pastor McDonough said, it is not a requirement for those who do not desire to do so.

Sunday attendance goal is 300, which would be a new high at Calvary.

Old-fashioned songs will be featured, along with an old-fashioned gospel sermon.

Calvary Assembly is an interdenominational, full gospel church. Only eight months old, its average Sunday school attendance for November so far is 280.

Sunday School hour begins at 9:30 a.m., with a class for every age, including no age limit auditorium class taught by the pastor, which consistently averages over 100 and has a goal of 125 Sunday

The Sunday morning worship service follows at 10:30 a.m. and features congregational, special and choir singing under the direction of the minister of music Larry Davis and a Bible-centered message by the pastor.

The church is presently remodeling its auditorium. The project includes lowering the ceiling, paneling the walls and carpeting the floor.

Children's home honors Dr. Blake

BRIDGETON— The annual Thanksgiving offering received by the Missouri Baptist Children's Home has been designated "30 Love" in honor of Dr. Edgar E. Blake, administrator for the past 30 years who has announced his retirement, effective Dec. 31.

Dr. Blake became administrator Jan. 1, 1945 at the beginning of a post- war period when unwanted babies and parentless children were on the increase. The years since have seen many changes in child care.

Organized in 1886, the Missouri Baptist Children's Home, located at Lindbergh and St. Charles Rock Road in Bridgeton, has expanded its ministry from the custodial care of babies to include foster home and adoptive care programs of infants and children through high school age, service to unwed mothers and more recently, a day nursery program.

Under Dr. Blake's leadership the program has moved rapidly into shorter-term care from an average of two years per child to an average length of stay of less than one year in the institution.

Dr. Blake came to the home after several years as a school administrator in rural Missouri and in St. Louis County. He attended Mayfield College at Marble Hill and graduated from Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau. He received a bachelor of science degree in education at the University of Missouri-Columbia and a master of arts degree from Washington University in St. Louis. He also received an honorary doctor's degree from William Jewell College at Liberty.

Although he and his wife, Gertrude (Farrar) Blake, have no children of their own, Dr. Blake has served the needs of children for 30 years.

Scripture: Jonah 1-4

BEYOND RACIAL BOUNDARIES

Today the world is facing many problems that are economic in nature. Nevertheless, such problems have changed the views of many on nationalism and foreign aid.

God's ultimate goal is the well-being of every person, regardless of economic or racial barriers. The different races, cultures, religions, and economic groups must somehow come together.

Today's Scripture is quite brief. The Book of Jonah, written in the 8th Century B.C., is directed against all pride, arrogance, and provincialism. It is appropriate reading for us today.

There are many Jonahs in our society today. Roland Murphy says "The humorous satire of the book will not disguise the fact that this little work is one of the most important in the Old Testament."

Jonah no doubt is better known as the person who was swallowed by a "great fish." First, Jonah is a disobedient prophet who later becomes obedient. He is also termed a "loner", one who thinks only of himself as he sits and sulks.

Jonah felt that God was to help his people rather than other groups, such as the 120,000 inhabitants of Nineveh. Jonah believed those persons were wicked and didn't deserve God's blessing. As one writer noted, sending a prophet to Nineveh was "like sending a lowly missionary into Soviet Russia to condemn its sins."

There are three major lessons here, according to George W. Frey. (1) God loves all people; (2) All people have the capacity to receive and experience the grace of God, and (3) Israel is blessed with a knowledge of God and is responsible for sharing this knowledge of God with others.

Allegorical interpretations vary about Jonah and the encounter with the whale. Dr. Murphy believes the "whole thrust of the book goes beyond a mere story and takes on the character of parable."

To some the scene of Jonah being thrown into the sea and being caught by the whale symbolizes our death. His being spewed out on the coast symbolizes the resurrection. And his rest under the plant symbolizes the immortal rest.

Throughout his career as a prophet, Jonah becomes discouraged and angry. On one occasion he is willing to die rather than face the problems ahead.

Jonah could not comprehend how ridiculous some of his actions were. In seeking to run away from God he learns as we all do that God is everywhere.

While Jonah was waiting outside the city to see what would befall Nineveh, God caused a caster oil plant suddenly to rise beside him to provide shade.

Shortly after that God sent a worm to kill the plant. When the plant withered away, Jonah was upset, asking God to kill him too.

Thus our lesson concludes with a question when God asks Jonah:

"You pity the plant, for which you did not labor, nor did you make it grow, which came into being in a night, and perished in a night.

"And should not I pity Nineveh, that great city, in which there are more than a hundred and twenty thousand persons who do not know their right hand from their left, and also much cattle?"

Jonah eventually was a success in preaching God's word. He was able to break down some of his nationalistic views. He was able to spread the word into lands he earlier had rejected.

In the lessons that follow we will discuss the New Testament to see more of the ways a living God seeks man.

President Ford heads drive to promote Bible

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford and a cross-country lineup of congressmen, governors, mayors, businessmen and religious leaders are heading a drive to boost the Bible as a basic source of integrity and idealism.

"This year we need the good book in a very bad way," says the theme for the campaign, the annual interfaith observance of National Bible Week from this Sunday, Nov. 24, through Dec. 1.

In the eight-day period, specific passages are recommended for reading each day. Also, a blitz of public service advertisements and broadcast spots have gone out for use during the week.

As honorary chairman of the effort, Ford issued a message commending it and declaring his own "special regard for Scriptures as a unifying source of wisdom and inspiration."

He said "greater knowledge, use and understanding" of the Bible can be a "strong force for good in our daily lives," and added: "Bible reading has been a tradition in my family for as long as I can remember."

The President, an Episcopalian, cited his favorite verses, Proverbs 3: 5-6: "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths."

He said he has made that passage "my daily prayer." It also was the passage on which he took his oath of office.

Special proclamations for the Bible-reading observance are being issued by more than 400 mayors and 35 governors, most of whom already have done so.

The week is sponsored by the Laymen's National Bible Committee, a New York-based organization of Protestant, Roman Catholic, Eastern Orthodox and Jewish laity.

Cooperating are agencies off the U.S. Catholic Conference, the National Council of Churches, the Greek Orthodox archdiocese, a Jewish committee, and for the first time, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon).

Utah's Gov. Calvin L. Rampton, a Democrat and himself a Mormon, is chairman of the governor's committee for the week. He said:

"There is no more certain guide in these uncertain times than the holy Bible."

Union service set at P'ville

PORTAGEVILLE — The annual community Thanksgiving service is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at St. Eustachius Catholic Church.

The Rev. Jerry Haughton, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, will deliver the sermon. Special music will be provided by a community choir composed of members from participating churches.

Black River youth to meet

KENNETT — A youth rally for churches in the Black River Baptist Association will be held at the Elly Baptist Church in Kennett Nov. 30.

Thoughts

From The Living Bible

Stay always within the boundaries where God's love can reach and bless you. Wait patiently for the eternal life that our Lord Jesus Christ in his mercy is going to give you. Try to help those who argue against you. Be merciful to those who doubt. Save some by snatching them as from the very flames of hell itself. And as for others, help them to find the Lord by being kind to them, but be careful that you yourselves aren't pulled along into their sins.
Jude 1:21-23

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

THE BIBLE

162. Solomon Begins the Temple

King Hiram of Tyre, who had greatly admired David, sent his ambassadors to congratulate Solomon for his kingship. So King Solomon sent a reply to King Hiram: "Thou knowest how that David my father could not build an house unto the name of the Lord his God for the wars which were about him on every side.... But now the Lord my God hath given me rest on every side, so that there is neither adversary nor evil occurrent. And, behold, I purpose to build an house unto the name of the Lord my God...." (I Kings 5:3-5)

Solomon asked Hiram to assist him by sending his excellent woodsmen to the mountains of Lebanon to cut cedar timber to be used in the temple. In return, Solomon supplied Hiram with huge quantities of food.

Solomon also drafted his own people to help in the cutting of the timber and stone for the temple.

Survey distributed in Bootheel area

An occupational survey is being distributed to residents of six Bootheel counties as part of an effort to identify the potential labor force, in the area.

The survey is sponsored by the Missouri State Employment Service, the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission and the Bootheel Industrial Development Council.

An occupational survey covers both employed and unemployed persons in all labor catagories.

The information is considered very important to new or expanding industry. Before a company will spend large sums of money for new or expanded facilities they have to know if they will be able to find sufficient personel.

Everyone between the years of 16 and 65 is being asked to fill out the questionnaire, regardless of their present employment status. Forms are being mailed to all homes, and extra forms are available at post offices.

The forms do not require any signature and personal information will be kept confidential.

All information from the forms will be coded and processed according to zip code so communities can have information concerning their own labor force.

The deadline for returning the forms is Dec. 11. Information is expected to be ready shortly after the first of the year.

Counties included in the survey are Scott, Mississippi, Stoddard, New Madrid, Pemiscot, and Dunklin.

'NIGHTCLUB SESAME'

NEW YORK (AP) — One song that nightclub audiences love to hear Lou Rawls sing is one he's never made a record of. It's the "Alphabet Song" from "Sesame Street," the educational TV series for preschoolers.

Requests for the song come from parents of small children who have seen Rawls do his rendition of the tune on "Sesame Street" for its estimated nine million young viewers.

Country music show planned

EAST PRAIRIE--- A country and western music show, featuring the Plummer Family of Branson, has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Nov. 30 in the junior high school gymnasium. The show is being sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Proceeds from the show will be used for the club's community projects. Included in this year's projects has been the sponsoring of two underprivileged students who entered high school this fall. A Boy Scout and a Girl Scout troop were also sponsored by the club.

The local club, organized in 1971, now has an active membership of 22.

Tickets for the show may be purchased in advance at a savings from any club member. They will also be available at the door.

8 treated

Eight accident patients were treated and released Thursday in the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 37. For about six years I've had a severe case of ulcerative colitis. Seldom do I see any articles about it, and I find most people don't know what it is or anything about it.

A few weeks ago when I was released from the hospital, my doctor, the leading internist in this area, suggested an operation. This involves all of my colon and part of my small intestine.

My former doctor cautioned me continually about cancer. Some of my latest spells have been more emotional and I've had vomiting. Others have suggested I try having either allergy tests made or admitting myself to the state mental hospital for help before I go through the operation. What would you suggest?

DEAR READER — I wish there were a good answer. The cause of ulcerative colitis is not known. And, we know just about as much about its treatment.

As you know the most common features of the disease are diarrhea, often with blood and mucus, and lower abdominal crampy pain. The symptoms are variable. Some people even have changes in the rectum or lower colon and have few, if any, noticeable symptoms. Others have severe diarrhea, hemorrhage and complications such as perforation of the colon.

It can be, and no doubt in your case is, a difficult disease. It can become chronic with recurring attacks of severe diarrhea and bleeding. Weight loss is common with it.

Milk and milk products seem to cause attacks in some patients. At one time it was believed that an allergic reaction to milk might be the cause. In any case I believe any one with this problem should avoid milk and milk products and goods made with lots of milk, like milk gravy and sauces.

Some cases seem to be started off with a diarrhea infectious illness. In some ways the disease acts like the immune mechanism of the body has gone haywire and the body is trying to reject the lining of the colon as foreign tissue. The disease, incidentally, can involve the rectum, colon, and terminal part of the small intestine.

I can't judge what you should do about surgery, but I can suggest that your fine internist has a good basis for his recommendation. Six years of trouble with involvement of the colon and terminal ileum tells me you have a severe case. Many patients do surprisingly well after surgery.

Cancer of the colon is much more common in patients with ulcerative colitis. And, less than 30 per cent of them survive five years if a cancer occurs. That is why your first doctor was concerned.

Don't waste your time on allergy tests. They won't help solve your problem. And, forget about the emotional problems, they often go along with the disease, and you may find out that your problems in this area are markedly improved when you have improved physically. Now, not everyone needs surgery for ulcerative colitis, but in selected cases that have not gone into remission and have not done well with good medical treatment, then it is often a good choice.

What's the law?

The case of the frustrated F.B.I.

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Rocky was a man with the courage of his nonconvictions. A racketeer, he didn't know for how long, however, his luck was going to hold out. The F.B.I. was investigating his activities and he felt certain that his erstwhile pal, Fingers, was about to rat on him. As a precaution, therefore, Rocky made it a point to "advise" his erstwhile pal, Fingers, that if he put the finger on him, he might end up under a brook.

Not much of a swimmer, Fingers readily heeded the advice. The F.B.I., however, took exception to it and, with its investigation frustrated, had Rocky arrested and charged with violating a law that made it a crime to interfere with the "administration of justice."

"He sealed the lips of Fingers so effectively," the judge was told, "that Fingers had less to say than Harpo Marx."

"I didn't interfere with the administration of justice," insisted Rocky. "All I did was to advise my friend, Fingers, not to talk to the F.B.I. I explained that they weren't his type of people. Besides," he added, "the F.B.I. doesn't administer justice. Heaven only knows what they do with it."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you jail Rocky for interfering with the administration of justice?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that Rocky had not interfered with the "administration of justice" since the F. B. I. is an investigating rather than a judicial arm of the government and does not administer jutice.

As for the annual loss in the period attributed to breast cancer, it was 5 locally.

Nationally, cancer remains the number two killer, second only to heart disease.

In Scott County, in the three-year period, some 14 per cent of all deaths were due to cancer, the figures show. Elsewhere in the country the average was 17 per cent.

Currently, about one person out of every three who get cancer is being cured, states the American Cancer Society. It defines "cured" as a five-year survival after treatment with no recurrence of the disease.

Still better results could be obtained, it says, if people would get regular medical checkups.

Heart victim dies awaiting ambulance

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark.— A Chickasawba Hospital spokesman Thursday labeled as "extremely rare and unfortunate" an incident Wednesday in which a woman died while it took an ambulance 21 minutes to get her to the hospital a mile away.

Mrs. Lula Huffman, 80, of Blytheville was stricken with a heart attack after a minor auto accident near the hospital.

"If I don't have a heart attack over this, nothing will kill me," Patrolman David Sims quoted her as jesting before being asked to sit in her car and wait for the officers to question her.

"She went back to her car-about 145 feet away- while I finished talking to the other driver, and all of a sudden I looked up and saw her slumped over. So I ran down there and started administering heart massage," Sims said.

A police dispatcher said he called for an ambulance at 1:34 p.m. and was told none was immediately available.

A Fire Department rescue squad was then dispatched and arrived six minutes later. Patrolman Sims was still administering heart massage and mouth- to- mouth resuscitation.

"I kept working and waiting...At first she'd had no pulse and I couldn't feel her heartbeat, but later she was coming back.

"I'd say she died about two minutes before the ambulance got there," Sims said.

Mrs. Huffman was pronounced dead at the hospital at 1:55 p.m.

Both of the ambulances stationed at the hospital had just returned from rural locations "and were being washed and gassed up," a hospital spokesman said.

"In all fairness it should be pointed out that the ambulance crew could have done nothing more than the policeman and the fire department rescue squad already on the scene did, if it had gotten there earlier," the spokesman said.

"Unfortunately, someone from the surgery crew who would have normally been present in the dispatch room when the ambulance people are outside, must have left the room for, I'd say, no more than a minute.

"This made the police dispatcher have to use the telephone instead of the radio and go through the front office, who in turn, had to get a hold of the ambulance people in this instance," he said.

Hospital officials hope to avoid the possibility of such a situation in the future, he said, by having ambulance radios altered to connect directly with police.

NBC SPECIAL EVENTS TO BE TELEVISED DURING 1974-1975 SEASON

The NBC Television Network again will provide color coverage during the 1974-75 season of several of America's most prestigious special events.

On Thursday, Nov. 28, NBC-TV will colorcast three hours of festivities at New York City's 48th annual Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade. This coverage will focus on the pre-parade activities (8-9 a.m. CDT), including the official start of the event, and the traditional parade along Broadway to New York's famous Herald Square (9 a.m. to 11 a.m. CDT).

The parade will include the huge Goodyear figure balloons in their only public appearance of the year; stars of TV, stage and recordings; colorful floats, award-winning bands and specialty acts.

The 41st annual King Orange Jamboree, more familiar to the public as the Orange Bowl Parade, will be carried by NBC-TV from Miami, Fla., Tuesday, Dec. 31 (7-8 p.m. CDT). This year's theme is "Fantasies and Fables and of Myths and Legends."

The Orange Bowl Parade is noted for its distinctively-styled floats, with performing groups accompanying many of them. The Orange Bowl Queen and her court of four princesses will preside over this annual New Year's Eve event.

NBC-TV will usher in 1975 by presenting the 86th annual Tournament of Roses Parade from Pasadena, Calif., Wednesday, Jan. 1 (10¾30 a.m. - 12:45 p.m. CDT).

All the floats in the parade will be decorated in floral displays to represent the theme, "Heritage of America." The parade also will include the Rose Queen and her court of six Rose Princesses, many celebrities and marching bands from various states and foreign countries.

In the Spring of 1975, NBC-TV will televise the 47th annual Oscar Awards program of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Originating from the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center, the program will give recognition to film achievements for 1974.

The lavish and eagerly-anticipated ceremonies are always enveloped in an aura of glamor because of the presence of top personalities in the motion picture industry as presenters, as performers and as members of the audience.

SPEAKING OF THE MOVIES

By Robert Klinge

"Juggernut", a gripping suspense drama set on the high seas, stars a brilliant international cast, headed by Richard Harris and Omar Sharrif with David Hemmings, Anthony Hopkins, Shirley Knight, Ian Holm, Clifton James and Roy Kinnear.

Most of the action takes place aboard a 25,000 ton luxury liner, Britannic, on a holiday cruise with nearly 1,000 passengers and crew members aboard. Suddenly the holiday atmosphere is shattered by a threat against the vessel and its human cargo.

The picture was literally launched at the English Port of Southhampton when Lester and his company set sail into the gail tossed seas off the coast of Britain. In their 16 days at sea, some 75 actors and technicians 300 extras and a ships working crew of 400 covered, 2,000 nautical miles.

The final four days of the trip was spent in the English Channel. The Britannic anchored at night in Torbay, filming a few miles off shore with Richard Harris, a half dozen stunt men and a private navy of support vessels.

If you thought "Poseidon Adventure" was a thriller, then you must see this production of "Juggernaut", I guarantee you it will have you hanging on to the arms of your seats for dear life.

If you haven't been to the movies lately, then I suggest you see this film. "Movies are Contagious — (and I guarantee, this will make you want to) Be A Carrier." Make your plans today ... We'd love to see you at the movies.

NBC

'BORN FREE'

ADAMSONS HALF UNSCRUPULOUS HUNTER.

Threatened by the loss of his land to the government, which is seeking to create more farmland, Rob Mallory (John De Villiers) teams up with a hunter and tries to sell his animals at a huge profit in "The White Rhino," to be colorcast on NBC Television Network's "Born Free," Monday, Nov. 25 (7-8 p.m. CST).

When the Adamsons (Gary Collins and Diana Muldaur) learn Mallory has allied with Willis (George Sewell), they watch the pair's activities and eventually come up with evidence to revoke the hunter's license.

One of the animals caught in the hunt is a rare white rhino and through the efforts of Mallory's granddaughter (Dawn Lyn) and the Adamsons, it is able to give birth after a narrow escape from the hunters. Barry Crane directed Hesper Anderson's teleplay.

"POLICE STORY'

Tuesdays, NBC Television Network (In Color, 9-10 p.m. CDT)

"Police Story," the NBC Television Network's anthology series, has been critically acclaimed by press and public as the most authentic and realistic program of its type. Also attesting to the very favorable impression the series has made in its intial year is the fact that several police academies have requested prints of certain "Police Story" episode for training purposes.

Policemen are shown as real people, at work in realistic situations, and they also are shown with their shortcomings as well as their virtues.

Joseph Wambaugh, who created the concept for the series and who serves as production consultant, knows what he's talking about. He joined the Los Angeles police department in 1960 and was a member of the force for almost 14 years. He also is the author of three best- selling books about policemen -- "The New Centurions," "The Blue Knight" and "The Onion Field."

A different section of the police department is featured each week. As an anthology, it has no recurring stars.

The series is a woman's show as well as a man's. As one female viewer observed: "The women in the various segments are never mere decorations or sex objects."

"Police Story," a Columbia Pictures Television Production in association with NBC-TV, is produced by Stanley Kallis. David Gerber is executive producer.

HALLMARK HALL OF FAME PRESENTS

"THE GATHERING STORM"

HALLMARK HALL OF FAME: "The Gathering Storm" -- Richard Burton stars as Winston Churchill in this drama special focusing on events which led to the outbreak of World War II. It is based on the first volume of Churchill's memoirs of that holocaust. (Color)

Winston Churchill's chronicle of events which exploded into the second World War, "The Gathering Storm," is dramatized in the "Hallmark Hall of Fame" special starring Richard Burton as Churchill. It will be colorcast on the NBC Television Network Friday, Nov. 29 (7:30-9 p.m. CST), the eve of the 100th anniversary of Churchill's birth.

The Churchill book, first volume of his World War II memoirs, has as its theme, "How the English-speaking peoples through their unwisdom, carelessness and good nature allowed the wicked to re-arm." This TV adaptation by Colin Morris begins in the spring of 1936 when Churchill, as a member of Parliament and through his speeches and writings, warns about the threat posed by the Fascist dictators -- warnings ignored by his country. It concludes when Churchill makes his first speech as Prime Minister to the Parliment of war-ravaged England in 1940. He vows to fight until victory comes and tells those assembled: "I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat."

As the drama unfolds, some of the names famous on the world stage in the 1930s and through World War II come to life. These include: Hitler, and his ambassador to England (and later Nazi foreign minister), von Ribbentrop; publisher and Churchill confidante Lord Beaverbrook; Prime Ministers Neville Chamberlain and Stanley Baldwin; Edward VIII (who quit the British throne "for the woman I love"); Austrian Chancellor von Schuschnigg; Anthony Eden; Lloyd George.

Most of the special was filmed on location at the Churchill country home, Chartwell. The British cast also stars Virginia McKenna as Churchill's wife Clemmie, Ian Bannen as Hitler and Robert Hardy as von Ribbentrop. Churchill's children are played by Angharad Rees (Sarah); Lesley Dunlop (Mary); and Clive Francis (Frandolph).

All "Hallmark Hall of Fame" specials are under the full sponsorship of Hallmark Cards, Inc. (through Foote, Cone & Belding Inc.). "The Gathering Storm" will preempt "Chico and the Man" and "The Rockford Files" on NBC-TV Nov. 29.
